Outlaw Christmas? Some People Want To

NEW YORK (AP) — Debate has broken out in various parts of the country this holiday season over the question: "Is Christmas unconstitutional?"

A number of people argue that some aspects of it are, including Christmas decorations with a religious motif in public places such as schools.

Others contend that school singing of Christmas carols associated with religion also runs afoul of the First Amendment, which provides for the separation of church and state.

Mayor Norman A. Myers of Overland, Mo., was stunned by a letter from two lawyers demanding on constitutional grounds, the removal of a nativity scene from the City Hall lawn.

The mayor said he would ignore the letter and commented: "If this is the type of Constitution we are living under, it certainly is in line for revision."

In Duluth, Minn., an unbeliever named Garry DeYoung, 44, took unbrage when one of his children brought home a program indicating that traditional carols would form a part of a school Christmas program.

DeYoung asserted that "the school's use of a religious holiday to present a religiously oriented program constitutes an affront to non-Christians and is a direct violation of the First Amendment."

After taking counsel with the school board attorney, Principal Donald Olson deleted the carols from the program.

The Florida branch of the American Civil Liberties Union advised school officials throughout the state that Christmas pageants with a religious content are unconstitutional and should be avoided. Reaction in general was outraged. Said Sheriff Lehigh Wilson of Brevard County: "If I am handed a warrant to arrest some teacher, somebody else will have to serve it—I won't."

In Eugene, Ore., defenders of the Constitution obtained a court order forbidding the city to light up a 40-foot cross which is erected each year in a municipal park. City officials turned on the lights and appealed to the state Supreme Court.

The New Mexico branch of the Civil Liberties Union wrote the State Department of Education objecting to Christmas religious programs in the schools.

The department sent copies of the union's letter to all school superintendents with no recommendation one way or the other.

But in the same envelopes went copies of a retort by Albuquerque school officials saying that the observance of Christmas is as much cultural as religious and that they intended to continue it.

In East Paterson, N.J., Mrs. Shirley Friedman stood up at a school board meeting and objected to paintings of Christ and other biblical figures on windows and doors of the Memorial Junior-Senior High School.

The 10 board members walked out of the school, where they were meeting, looked at the decorations, walked back in and went on to the next order of business.

Speaks in Rain

President Johnson spoke in a heavy rain to about 3,000 persons at Honolulu airport Tuesday during a stopover while enroute to Australia, where he will attend memorial services for Prime Minister Harold Holt. (UPI)

Ready For Season

Members of Explorer Post 67, sponsored by the Sedalia Police Department, are shown adding the finishing touches to the Christmas tree at the police department. Cadet Girl Scout Troop 295, under the direction of their troop leader, Mrs. Harold Lane, also helped in decorating the tree in preparation for the police department's annual Christmas party for children in the Sedalia area.

Johnson Says Talks Between Saigon, VC Could End Viet War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says "the war could be stopped in a matter of dent talks informally with the Communist National Liberation Front and wins their agreement to abide by the Geneva accords.

And on curing violence at home, Johnson says he's going to tell American businessmen either they help in hiring a half million hard-core unemployed or the government will offer them jobs—"as expensive as it is."

Johnson spoke hopefully of "good results" through Saigon talks with members of the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong political arm, during a wide-ranging pretaped television interview broadcast nationally Tuesday night as he winged toward Australia.

Administration sources said the President may stress this point privately with President Nguyen Van Thieu, of South Vietnam, who also is headed for the Melbourne memorial service for Prime Minister Harold Holt.

Thieu has been rebuffed by Hanoi in his call for direct negotiations with North Vietnam. He has refused to recognize the National Liberation Front (NLF) as a government, but has left the way open for informal talks with its members.

Johnson outlined five peace conditions based on existing U.S. demands that North Vietnam "leave your neighbor alone." Thev included an end to Hanoi infiltration through Laos and the Demilitarized Zone, in accord with the 1954 and 1962 Geneva agreements; one man-one vote government in the South and peaceful negotiations for North-South reunification.

The President was interviewed in his White House office Monday morning by correspondents from the three major networks, which trimmed his remarks to fit the one-hour program.

Chatting earnestly and leaning forward occasionally in his rocking chair as he stressed a point, Johnson also made these observations:

—"I don't know what the effect of the Kennedy-McCarthy movement is having in the country" but "I do know of the interest of both of them in the presidency and the ambition of both of them—I see that reflected from time to time."

A spokesman for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said, "It seemed a very curious way for the President to promote party unity."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, an avowed candidate for next year's Democratic presidential nomination, could not be reached immediately for comment.

More Supplies are Sent To Beleaguered Navajos

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — More emergency food supplies were rushed toward the Navajo reservation today after a new storm and whipping winds during the night left thousands of Indians fighting waist-high snow.

Nearly a foot of snow fell in some areas of the 16-million-acre reservation, the largest in the United States.

Air Force rescue helicopter crews stood by to ferry food to Navajos living in sparsely settled areas. A White House aide, Ralph Burns, was sent to Phoenix for a look at the situation, termed the most critical period of modern Navajo history by Tribal Chairman Raymond Nakai.

Thomas Sembera, an Office of Emergency Planning official, was in Santa Fe, N.M., and Nakai hoped to get both men out to the reservation.

Tribal officials said the known death toll on the reservation from seven days of snow remained at three persons. But they say about 60,000 Navajos are affected to some degree by the storms.

The weather picture was similar over much of the snow-smothered Southwest. Nearly seven feet of snow was reported on the ground at Flagstaff in northeast Arizona. Eight deaths during the past two days were attributed to snow in California, where snow fell at Porterville in Tulare County for the first time in four years.

A different weather hazard—rising temperatures which could cause flooding—was reported in some areas of Arizona. Several persons were evacuated at Miami, Ariz., when water in the Bluebird Mine Reservoir was just a foot below the top. Floods were reported in a Phoenix residential area after a downpour.

The U.S. Weather Bureau had heavy snow warnings in effect during the night for much of Arizona and New Mexico.

The federal government had taken no action on Nakai's request that the Navajo reservation be declared a disaster area so that additional heavy equipment could be obtained to help clear snow-plugged roads to villages and hogans.

"Give us a clear 24 hours and we can make a lot of medicine," said Graham Holmes, Bureau of Indian Affairs Navajo area director, in reference to the blocked roads.

Holmes said the bureau had 60 tons of surplus food commodities on the way by truck and another 77 tons were being held in reserve. The New Mexico Welfare Department sent additional foodstuffs to the Indian areas of Crown Point and Shiprock, N.M.

Australia Vows To Stay in Viet

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Interim Prime Minister John McEwen said today that the death of Prime Minister Harold E. Holt does not alter the Australian government's commitment to stand firmly beside its allies in Vietnam.

"We will share their efforts and agonies," McEwen told his first news conference after his swearing in. About 6,000 Australian troops are fighting in Vietnam.

Preparations continued at an accelerated pace for the arrival of President Johnson, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and other foreign leaders flying to Australia for a memorial service in Melbourne Friday for Holt, who disappeared last weekend while swimming in the surf off the southeast coast.

The chiefs of state or government heads of all seven of the anti-Communist allies in the Vietnam war were to be on hand for the Melbourne service, and it was obvious that the war would be discussed, at least informally.

Prime Minister Keith Holyoake of New Zealand said members of the Australian government had told him arrangements were being made for such talks. A spokesman for President Johnson said the Americans expected "informal bilateral conversations" but there were no plans for "multilaterals," meaning a session of all the allies at once.

McEwen told newsmen it would be impossible to arrange a formal summit meeting on such short notice.

In addition to Johnson, Holyoake and McEwen, the war allies present will include President Nguyen Van Theiu of South Vietnam, President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines, President Chung Hee Park of South Korea and Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn of Thailand.

There was speculation that President Johnson would return home via Vietnam for a brief pre-Christmas visit to the troops, but this was neither confirmed nor denied.

Prime Minister Wilson was being accompanied to Australia by 19-year-old Prince Charles, designated by his mother, Queen Elizabeth II, to represent her at the service. It was the first such assignment for the heir to the throne, who spent a term at an Australian school last year.

Police said the search for Holt's body would continue off Portsea, 37 miles south of Melbourne, for at least eight more days, although there has been speculation that it would never be found because of the strong currents. Holt's wife, her three stepsons and their wives remained at the family's vacation home at Portsea to be near the search.

Washkansky Condition Said Worse

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The condition of heart transplant patient Louis Washkansky, 53, deteriorated today, a bulletin issued by Groote Schuur Hospital said.

The worsening situation followed a statement earlier in the day to Radio South Africa by Dr. Christian N. Barnard, leader of the heart transplant team, that Washkansky had shown improvement.

The hospital bulletin said: "There has been a further deterioration in Mr. Washkansky's condition and breathing has now to be assisted by artificial ventilation. His pulse and blood pressure remain satisfactory."

The government radio had quoted Barnard as saying Washkansky's lungs were responding to treatment and his chances of recovery were good.

There are no signs of the body rejecting the heart, the broadcast said Barnard added.

Earlier today a hospital bulletin said there was no change in Washkansky's condition and he "is still seriously ill." But the doctors Tuesday night said he had made a slight gain after a transfusion of white blood cells.

Continue To Probe River For Bodies

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — Small boats continued to drag the Ohio River today downstream from the collapsed suspension bridge here while divers attempted to free wrecked autos from the mangled steel and concrete 40 feet under water.

The divers use torches to cut the sunken steel girders into workable lengths, which are then hauled up by 100-ton floating derricks. Officials estimate it may take several months to clear all debris from the river bottom.

Searchers recovered two more bodies Tuesday night, raising the number of known dead from the bridge collapse last Friday to 23.

Action by U.N. On Asian War 'Up to LBJ'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said today the question of calling a meeting of the U.N. Security Council on Vietnam is now in the hands of President Johnson.

Goldberg told a news conference he had completed a survey of sentiment among council members Tuesday and transmitted a report to the President. He expressed belief that a decision would not be reached before the beginning of the new year.

The U.S. delegate declin d to say what sentiment he had discovered in his consultations. He did say, however, that he stood by previously expressed views that the United Nations has a basic responsibility in the Vietnam conflict.

Asked about reports that he planned to quit his U.N. post, Goldberg answered: "I have not submitted my resignation."

Messiah Will Be Presented At S-C

Tonight at 8 p.m. the combined mixed choruses of Smith-Cotton High School, accompanied by the school orchestra, will present Handel's "Messiah" in Smith-Cotton's auditorium.

The group will be directed by Mrs. Geraldine Schrader, vocal and instrumental music instructor.

The presentation is given annually at S-C to commemorate the Christmas season.

Annual Police Party To Be Saturday

Santa Claus, Sedalia police officers and merchants have joined forces to stage the Annual Police Officers' Christmas Party, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the police station Saturday.

Officer James Lawson, president of the Police Officers' Association, said that Santa Claus will distribute about a ton of candy and 30 boxes of oranges to youngsters who visit him. Lawson also said that about 4,000 children are expected to come.

"This year's Christmas party is sponsored solely through donations from merchants and other interested parties," Lawson said.

Announce Winners In Home Decoration Contest

Winners in the Home Decoration Contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce are: First prize, Mr. and Mrs. Kennie Miller, 1223 West Third; second place, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Phillips, 2306 South Woodlawn and third Keith Hawkins, Walnut Hills.

The Miller home is festive with lights outlining the house, and windows, the windows decorated from the inside, lights over the shrubs and trees, a huge Christmas package wrapped in green foil on which Santa's elves are working frantically to get tied up with red ribbon and in the front yard the happy family going to Grandma's for Christmas. This prize was $50.

The Phillips home has a distinctly different idea with the nativity scene in silhouette, framed with evergreens and colored lights. Across the front picture window is "Merry Christmas" in white with a background of graceful sweeping white curtains that gives the whole scene a homey touch. There is a large evergreen in the yard with colored lights and sitting on a keg by the front door is that miniature elf, old Santa himself. This received $30.

Perhaps the one that will bring a smile and reach the hearts of most people is the work of a 13 year old boy, Keith Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hawkins in Walnut Hills, for there, as big as Charlie Brown would be, is Charlie Brown and all his friends, plus, of course, his dog and Charlie Brown's philosophy in big letters: "Happiness is Christmas." Keith drew the characters himself, cut them out, put them up in the front yard and then decorated the evergreens with lights, as well as the small wooden bridge at the road in front of his house which has evergreens and colored lights. The warmness of Charlie Brown, his friends and Keith, seem to truly get the message of Christmas happiness across. This received third place.

Over town, in all parts, are many beautifully decorated homes, some of them with very different ideas. One at 1012 South Center has a lighted Christmas tree on the porch, surrounded with gifts, and a large doll as big as a little girl standing as if entranced at what Santa had left. On the door is a Santa watching the scene and there are many lights around the home. This, too, was done by a boy, Ricky Smith.

There are homes completely decorated with lights, some of them are one story homes, maybe with a lighted star on the antenna, a Santa on the roof, then there are the two story homes decorated effectively with rows of lights on upstairs porches as well as the first floor decoration, the outlining of these homes, the signs of all kinds giving Christmas greetings. There are decorated posts and evergreens. There are beautiful nativity scenes of plastic figures in colors with lights inside, nativity scenes painted and cut from heavy cardboard or plywood, there are all symbols of Christmas not only in those entered but in many, many over town that were not entered in the contest.

Originality has played a large part in decorations, too, such as the snowbirds of all different colors with an effective scene; the bare branches of a young tree in one yard decorated with lights; there are strings of lights in the form of bells or Christmas greetings; there are story book characters, there are elaborate decorations, and yes, there are small, not too prosperous looking little homes, weather beaten with a lighted door, or window or tree, that say: "Christmas is inside," and such a little home impressed one of the judges for its one simple little string of lights brought out the Christmas message.

There are entire neighborhoods that have gone in for decoration and such may be found in the DeJarnette addition, as well as other places in town.

Sedalia homes are aglow at night with decorations that all should be proud of, the stained glass window effect of the Muller home on Broadway, the many other homes on that street, too, which is the highway, with all of the beautiful lighting effects that take hours of work, and at Ninth and Ohio a tall living evergreen in the yard, many feet high, decorated with only white lights that seems to stand out almost as if it were in the middle of the street when looking south from the business district and can be seen for blocks.

SNOW JOB

for the winter driver can be a very serious matter—even of life or death. Light reflected from snow, dirty windshields and other highway hazards accompanying winter add extra hazard to driving. The smart driver can play it cool and safe by following a few tips compiled by the Society for Visual Care.

Christmas Damper

Flu 'Bugs' are Spreading Over Wide Area of U.S.

By EDITH LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

Influenza and influenza-like respiratory infections are putting a bug in Christmas preparations from Oklahoma to Maryland.

Across the Midwest, mid-South and mid-Atlantic states, outbreaks of various respiratory ailments—many as yet unidentified—have forced schools to close early and businesses to curtail activity.

Though the "bugs" have left some last-minute Christmas shoppers with sore throats, fever, aches and chest pains, their arrival was not totally unexpected.

Last summer, the government's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta forecast an influenza epidemic in the eastern United States this winter.

Unfortunately, the prediction appears to be coming true. Flu in the Far West is either nonexistent or below normal. In the East and Midwest, however, several epidemics and near-epidemics are already in full swing.

In Michigan Asian flu was reported reaching near epidemic proportions in the southeastern corner of the state—the populous Detroit area—after soaring close to epidemic levels in the rest of lower Michigan, state health authorities reported.

Several thousand school children in scattered parts of the state were out of class because of the ailment and schools in some sections of the state closed indefinitely because of flu outbreaks.

Officials said, however, that the end of the outbreak was expected soon. It began several weeks ago at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, where, officials said, several thousand students missed classes because of illness due to Asian flu virus.

Alabama Health Officer Ira L. Myers, said his state was in the throes of an influenza epidemic, with 2,761 cases of influenza and 10,418 cases of influenza-like respiratory disease this week.

Dr. R. H. Hutcheson, Tennessee commissioner of public health, described the flu situation in hardest-hit Nashville and Knoxville as a "good-size epidemic. But it's just what we've been expecting since July."

In Culpeper County, Va., schools closed for Christmas vacation Tuesday—two days early—after 11 per cent of the teachers and 657 of 4,000 students were absent with flu. Dr. R. S. Legarde, county health officer, labeled the outbreak an "epidemic of viral respiratory diseases."

Last week, the Oklahoma State Health Department described the Asian flu outbreak in the northeast city of Bartlesville as the worst in the nation.

Dr. LeRoy Carpenter, director of the Epidemiology Division, said the State Health Department was taking blood tests of suspected cases in other cities "just to make sure we know about an outbreak as quickly as possible."

In Bergen County, N.J., medical authorities said Tuesday there appeared to be a minor epidemic of Asian flu. Absenteeism in the northern New Jersey county's 16 schools ranged from 10 to 35 per cent.

"The state is full of something," said Dr. Arnold M. Reeve, of the Iowa State Health Department. Though tests to pin down the bug have not been completed, he said it looked like a virus other than influenza.

An influenza-like virus running through the Washington, D.C., area raised the absentee rate in some schools to nearly 30 per cent and cut the staffs of some federal agencies. The Department of Agriculture reported Monday that the number of visits to its health unit hit a peak.

In Maryland, a suspected influenza outbreak in Allegany County brought the absentee rate at Allegany High School to a peak of 35 per cent last Friday.

The high school in Hot Springs, Ark., closed for two days last week after 292 of the 464 students were absent with what State Health Department officials described as an outbreak of mild respiratory illness.

Large-scale flu infections and respiratory illness brought early Christmas vacations to some elementary and high school youngsters in McCook, Neb.; Barnwell, Calhoun and Horry Counties, S.C.; and Madison County and Royston, Georgia.

In Louisiana, Minnesota, the New York metropolitan area, Atlanta, northeast Georgia and Dade County, Fla., respiratory ailments were also reported on the upswing.

As for business, Dr. Joseph Bistowish, director of the Nashville (Tenn.) Health Department, said many firms had been hurt by absenteeism. "In fact, we've had quite a few missing from our offices at the health department because of the flu."

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is for the thousands, maybe millions of people in the country who should sit down and write to a mother, father, sister, brother, grandmother or good friend. Yet they have put it off because they think they have nothing of interest to say.

Modern life pulls families apart. It also makes heavy demands on our time and energy. We all know it is not easy to write a gem of a letter. Moreover, when most of us review the week's activities they seem too dull to recount. Please take my word for it, friends, they won't be dull to the person you are writing to. Just receiving a letter gives most folks a lift. Almost anything you say in a letter will be of interest if the person cares about you.

So don't wait for something spectacular to happen. Sit down today and write that letter you've been putting off. You'll feel good about it and you will make someone awfully happy. — T. M. M.

Dear T.M.M.: We all need an occasional nudge to do the things we know we should do. Thank you for this gentle prodding.

Dear Ann Landers: An aunt and uncle who raised my brother and me announced at dinner last night that they have purchased 12 burial plots "so we can all rest together." The plots are for my aunt and uncle, myself, my husband, our two children, my brother, his wife and their two children, and my grandparents whose remains my aunt and uncle plan to have moved.

I said nothing when the announcement was made but later my husband and I talked it over and decided we don't want to obligate ourselves in this way. First of all, we feel that Aunt and Uncle should not have made such far-reaching plans for our children who are teen-agers. They may want to be buried with their mates (assuming they marry) or they may want to be cremated and not buried at all. Furthermore, my brother's wife's family might have some objections. I did not discuss this with her, but I could see from the expression on her face that she wasn't too pleased with the idea either.

Aunt and Uncle have been wonderful to us and we don't want to hurt their feelings. Please tell us what to do. — TOO MUCH TOGETHERNESS

Dear Too Much: It was presumptuous of Aunt and Uncle to expect you to accept their ground rules, if you will pardon the expression. The chances are good that they will predecease you, in which case you have plenty of time to decide what you want to do. In the meantime, say "Thank you" and make no commitment.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a young girl with terrible looking legs. It's not that they are too fat or too thin; in fact, they are shaped rather well. The problem is that my legs are all blotchy from poison ivy and poison oak. I also have an ugly scar where I cut myself on a milk bottle when I was very young. The textured stockings and high boots are a blessing, but eventually they will go out of style and then what will I do? Do you know of a solution? — LOOKING AHEAD AND DREADING IT

Dear Looking: If your legs are as unsightly as you say, you should see a physician about a procedure called abrasive planing. The outer layer of skin can be removed by a sanding process. This operation has proven highly successful in a great many cases.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

IN THE NEWS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The downtown Los Angeles sheriff's office received these local weather reports Tuesday:

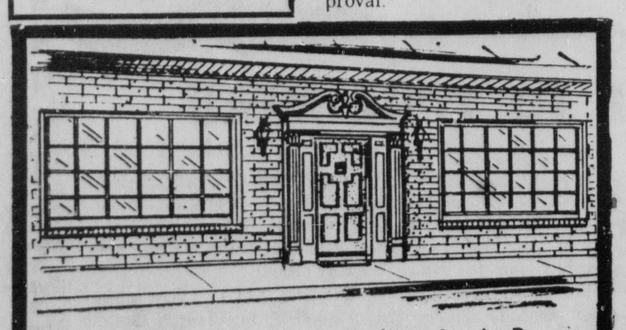
Temple City—"Snowing."

Norwalk—"Raining oil over La Mirada and Santa Fe Springs" during an oil tank fire.

West Hollywood—"Sunshine."

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — With their streets flooded from rain, Oxnard voters went to the polls Tuesday to defeat a bond issue to build 10 major storm drains.

The vote on the $3.5-million project was 1,330 yes and 679 no —just under the required two-thirds majority needed for approval.



Air Raids Curtailed By Weather

SAIGON (AP) — Foul weather gave Hanoi respite today from U.S. air raids that had been largely centered around the North Vietnamese capital since last Thursday, U.S. officers reported. Most strikes were limited to the southern panhandle.

Pilots returning from missions Tuesday said they shot down two more of the MIGs that have challenged them in fierce dogfights during the unusually clear skies in a season when monsoon storm clouds normally veil North Vietnam's heartland.

Two other Soviet-designed jets were reported probably destroyed.

The U.S. 11th Infantry Brigade, made up of 4,300 jungle fighters, arrived by ship at Qui Nhon for duty in South Vietnam.

This followed up the arrival of the bulk of two fresh brigades of the 101st Airborne Division last week in the biggest Pacific airlift of the war, part of a buildup toward a roll of 525,000 by next June.

At one point last week about 475,000 American servicemen were reported in Vietnam, exceeding the 472,800 committed to Korea at the peak of the Korean War in 1953.

There was an unusually heavy movement home for Christmas, however, of troops who had completed their tours of duty and the U.S. Command listed the total in Vietnam as of last Saturday midnight at 470,000.

Debarkation of the infantry brigade again pushed the unofficial estimate of troop strength here past the Korean peak.

Pilots who raided the Hanoi area said the city's principal bridge—the 19-span Paul Doumer Bridge across the Red River—was battered beyond use. They reported eight spans were down and three more were damaged.

The bridge is one of two over which all road and rail traffic from Red China to Hanoi must pass and is the principal artery for munition and war supplies moved by land.

There was no estimate of how long it would take to get the bridge functioning again. But intelligence reports say the North Vietnamese have been working during the past month of cloud cover to build pontoon bridges and bamboo structures which could be quickly floated into place as substitutes.

The raiders also pummeled the big railroad shops on the northeastern edge of Hanoi. Pilots said they caught some 50 rail cars and left them under a blanket of flame and smoke.

The two MIG kills brought the total number of Communist jets claimed by American pilots to 101. The American Command credits Red pilots with shooting down 36 U.S. warplanes over the North, including two since the letup in the northeast monsoons last Thursday permitted the resumption of intensive attacks on the Hanoi area.

Carrying new dull-black M16 rifles and dark green field equipment, the 11th Brigade troops marched onto Vietnamese soil to a welcome from Gen. Creighton Abrams Jr., deputy commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, and Marine Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman.

The brigade will undergo orientation training, then join the American Division in combat. They had trained since early this year in the thick vegetation of Koolau Mountain, on the Hawaiian island of Oahu.

The American Division, operating in the jungles and on the coastal plains of Quang Tin and Quang Nam provinces about 300 miles northeast of Saigon, reported killing 55 Communist soldiers in running, scattered fighting Tuesday.

In another sensitive war zone, along the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon, troops of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division early today killed 39 Communist soldiers who tried to overrun a brigade base camp.

The Reds laid down a barrage of more than 200 mortar rounds and then hit the camp in battalion strength—about 300 men. Attack planes, artillery and helicopter gunships went into action, and the attack was quickly contained.

Challenge Toll Road Legislation

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's new toll road law was attacked as invalid and unconstitutional today in Cole County Circuit Court.

Cullen Coil, an attorney for the two contractors who brought the test suit, said the legislature tried to by-pass the constitution in giving authority to the State Highway Commission to lease toll turnpikes and pay for them with highway funds."

The suit was brought by Joseph L. Pohl, Nevada, Mo., and W. J. Menefee, Sedalia, both of whom are highway contractors. They said they represented all highway users in Missouri, who pay the taxes to finance Missouri roads.

At the outset of the hearing, Judge James T. Riley, allowed Rep. Stephen T. Burns and nine other Republican representatives to intervene as plaintiffs.

The only evidence submitted was factual material about the sources and use of highway funds and the lease agreement last Oct. 26 between the highway commission and the turnpike authority.

The authority is made up of the six highway commissioners plus the governor.

In his oral argument, Coil charged the lease agreement creates a liability of the state. He charged it would be a state obligation which might have to be paid off from general taxation.

Coil said the 40-year lease violates the constitution and the legislature had no power to go beyond the limits set out in the constitution for the use of highway funds.

He also charged the title of the toll road law was defective because it was unconstitutional and misleading, and said nothing about empowering the highway commission to operate or lease toll roads.

Issue Final Call For Toys Project

Don Williams, president of the Legion of the Moose and John Youngkamp, chairman of the project, are asking citizens of the area to donate candy and all new or used toys that are in good condition, to be distributed to the less fortunate children before Christmas.

The Moose and Northside Citizens Association have joined forces this year with the toy project. Toys are being given to parents who will help Santa make Christmas a happy day for their children. Distribution of these toys is being made December 20, 21, and 22 at the Moose Lodge building. About 40 parents visited the Moose building Dec. 19 and received toys from this project for 137 children.

New or used toys may be left in the containers which have been placed around Sedalia by the Moose Club or taken to the Moose building at Third and Lamine.

Johnson

clined to say whether he'll seek re-election, he said he's sure the Republicans will still wind up in the minority on election day.

—He is going to appeal to every Republican in Congress to "do what is best for his country" and "I am going to do what I think is best for my country, at home and abroad, without regard to what effect is has on my future."

—Business and production will pick up next year and "we look forward to continued prosperity." But he called still essential the administration's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

—U.S. policy toward Europe has recorded more success during 1967 than in any other period. Accomplishments range from the new tariff agreements to revamping of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Johnson is sorry about his differences with French President Charles de Gaulle, but says relations between the American and French people remain friendly.

—The Middle East still presents "one of our most dangerous situations" and will require efforts by all parties concerned to achieve a solution. The United States has a "very definite interest in Israel" but not a mutual security treaty commitment to defend her.

On what he termed the No. 1 subject for U.S. government leaders, a continuing search for a Vietnam peace, Johnson said the solution will not come from administration critics like Sens. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Vance Hartke, D-Ind., or Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y.

"This peace is going to be found by the leadership of South Vietnam, the people of South Vietnam, in South Vietnam," he said.

"President Thieu has said that the South Vietnamese government is not prepared to recognize the NLF as a government, and it knows well that NLF's control is by Hanoi. And so do we.

"But he also has said that he is prepared for informal talks with members of the NLF, and these could bring good results. I think that is a statesmanlike position. And I hope the other side will respond...

"I think the war could be stopped in a matter of days if President Thieu's suggestions that he informally talk with members of the NLF are carried out and if they would agree to what they have already agreed to in the 1954 accords and the 1962 accords and the other points that I mentioned this morning, like one man-one vote under the present constitutional government."

Johnson served notice of his forthcoming call on U.S. businessmen as he talked at length about causes and cures for the summer riots that erupted in cities across the land.

Declaring violence comes from a people who have been held down for many years and want quickly what is due them, the Chief Executive said the underprivileged need jobs, health, education and housing to realize their hopes.

"There are some half-million unemployed, hard-core unemployed, in our principal cities," Johnson said. "We just have to go and find jobs for them.

"I am going to call in the businessmen of America and say one of two things have to happen: You have to help me go out here and find jobs for these people, or we are going to have to find jobs in the government for them and offer every one of them a job.

"I think that is one thing that could be done. I think that will have to be done, as expensive as it is.

"Second, I think we will have to do something about the housing situation. People live in filth, in dilapidated houses. More new housing ought to be built and has to be built."

Johnson said Congress has not made enough progress on housing legislation. Deficiencies in education and health are being speedily corrected, he said.

Johnson said he will go about the country despite dissenters and demonstrators, and he hinted political opponents have fostered the notion that such tours would be risky for the President.

Optimist Club Hears Madrigals

The Madrigal Singers of Smith-Cotton High School, under the direction of Mrs. Carl Schrader, have become as much a part of Christmas for Sedalia civic clubs as Santa Claus. They are expected every year and if they didn't appear everybody would be as disappointed as a three year old on Christmas morning if Santa forgot to come.

The Madrigal group made its annual appearance for the members of the Optimist Club Tuesday noon at State Fair Restaurant, and sang an assortment of Christmas music from the lively Christmas songs, new and old, to the beautiful carols.

The meeting was presided over by Lee Deason, president, with invocation by Wray Schroeder.

Deason announced that the Christmas tree project is going well and that all ads had been sold on the cushions and ready to be sent off shortly.

Several of the members had their wives as guests and Schroeder introduced as his guest, also, his aunt, Mrs. Herman Taylor.

There will be no meeting of the Optimist Club next Tuesday.

This latest reorganization of the Missouri Army National Guard, required by the Department of the Army, will result in deactivation of many Missouri Guard Units with long histories and traditions of service to Missouri and the Nation.

Wherever possible, new units will retain their traditional numerical designations.

Missouri Guard planners also strived to retain units in communities where active units now exist, even though the designation, type and strength of the new units will change.

Motor Carriers Citation Issued

The PSC today issued a citation order for 204 interstate motor carriers to appear before it to show why their authorities to operate in Missouri should not be revoked.

The carriers, representing trucking companies with headquarters in all parts of the nation, have failed to file proof of proper insurance requirements in compliance with Missouri law. All were suspended for that violation prior to July and have had numerous notifications of Missouri regulations.

Carriers cited in today's order are to appear on Jan. 25, 1968 at the PSC hearing rooms, 10th floor, Jefferson Building, Jefferson City. The hearing will begin at 10 a.m.

Oakland Has Six All-America

NEW YORK (AP) — Six members of Oakland's Western Division champions dominate the American Football League All Star team selected for The Associated Press by a panel of 27 sports writers and broadcasters from across the country and released today.

The Raiders' balance was demonstrated in the voting by three-man committees from each of the AFL's nine cities with three Oakland players named to the offensive team and three to the defensive squad.

Heading the Oakland contingent is quarterback Daryle Lamonica, who has piloted the Raiders to their first divisional crown and leads the league in passing.He has thrown 29 touchdown passes, tops in the league.

Joining Lamonica on the offensive squad from Oakland are tight end Billy Cannon, who switched from running back two years ago and developed into a top pass catcher this season, and Jim Otto, a heavy choice at center.

In the backfield with Lamonica are Boston's muscular Jim Nance, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards for the second straight season, and Kansas City's evasive Mike Garrett at the running backs.

Fleet Lance Alworth of San Diego was a nearly unanimous choice at flanker and George Sauer of New York, the AFL's top pass catcher, won the split end job. Nance and Alworth are repeaters from last year.

Up front on the offensive unit, Kansas City's Jim Tyrer and San Diego's Ron Mix, both repeaters, are the tackles, with San Diego's Walt Sweeney and Houston's Bob Talamini nailing down the guard spots.

Defensively, Oakland, Houston and Kansas City dominated the voting with three berths each.

Selected from the Raiders were mammouth Ben Davidson, a 6-foot-7 defensive end, tackle Tom Keating and corner back Kent McCloughan.

Houston placed corner linebacker George Webster, the only rookie to make the team, defensive end Pat Holmes, and corner back Miller Farr, who returned three of his eight interceptions for touchdowns.

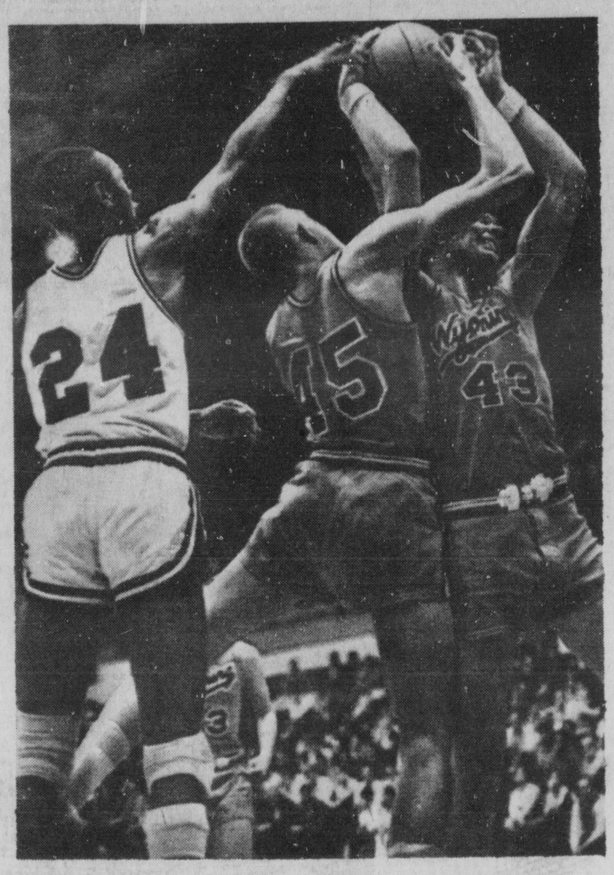
Picked from Kansas City were tackle Buck Buchanan, a massive 6-7, 287 pounds, linebacker Bobby Bell and safety Johnny Robinson.

Nick Buoniconti, Boston's middle linebacker, and Buffalo safety George Saimes are the other defensive picks.

Buchanan, Buoniconti, Bell, Robinson and McCloughan all are repeaters from last year's defensive team.

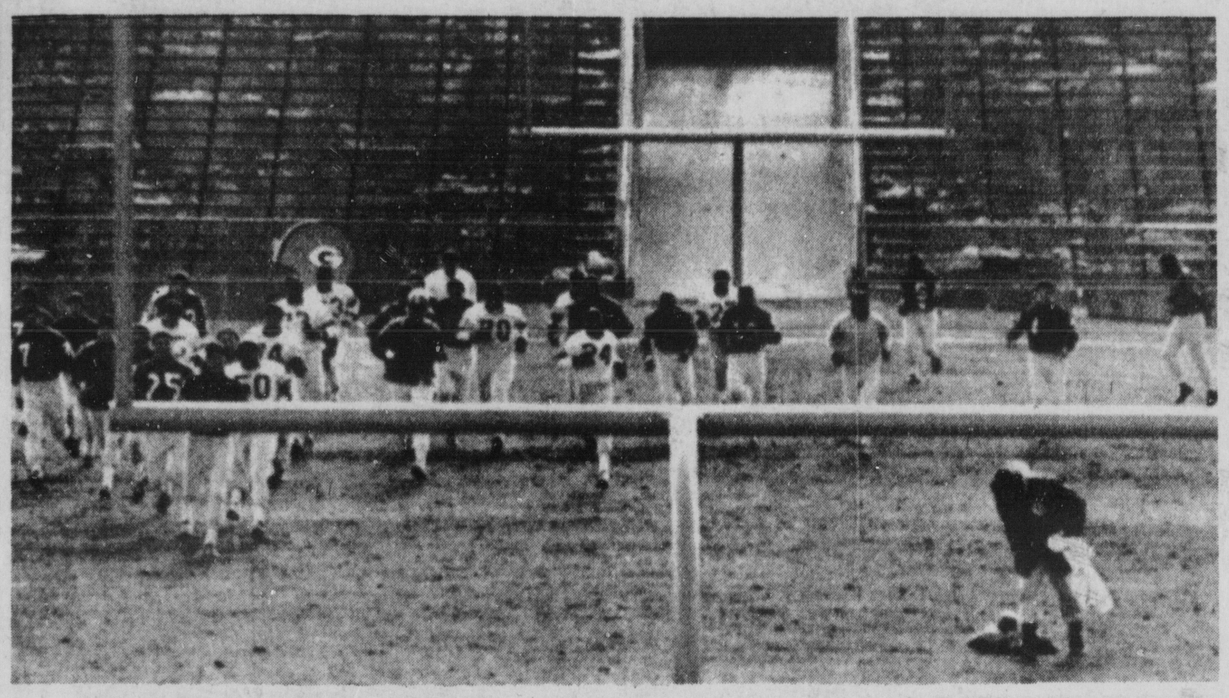
Over-all, there were 14 players chosen from the Western Division and eight from the Eastern Division. Oakland had six selections, Kansas City five, Houston four, San Diego three, Boston two and New York and Buffalo one each.

Only Miami and Denver, tailenders in the Eastern and Western Divisions, failed to place a man on the first team.



Tie Ball

Oklahoma's Landy Watson (24) reaches high to tie the ball with Wyoming's Stan Dodds (45) and Gary Von Krosigk (43) in a non-conference basketball game. Wyoming won 82-71. (UPI)



Practice In Private

The Green Bay Packers football team was under lock and key as practice sessions were held behind closed doors. The team began preparing for the big game with the Los Angeles Rams in Milwaukee this weekend. (UPI)

Get New Player Talent

The Cincinnati Reds and Chicago White Sox finished fourth in their respective baseball pennant races last season. But they're well in the lead in the number of new players acquired through trades and purchases since the close of the 1967 campaign.

Cincinnati has picked up eight players. The White Sox, with General Manager Ed Short calling the shots, aren't short of new faces, either. They have seven, top figure in the American League.

The Reds obtained outfielder Mack Jones and pitcher Jay Ritchie from Atlanta, infielder Bob Johnson from the New York Mets, first baseman Fred Whitfield and pitcher George Culver from Cleveland, pitcher Ron Tompkins from the new Oakland A's and pitchers Bill Kelso and Jorge Rubio from California.

The White Sox made two six-player transactions. They obtained from Baltimore shortstop Luis Aparicio, outfielder Russ Snyder and first baseman-outfielder John Matias for pitchers Bruce Howard and Roger Nelson and infielder Don Buford. Then, in an interleague deal, they got outfielder Tommy Davis, pitchers Jack Fisher and Bill Wynne and catcher Buddy Booker from the New York Mets for outfielder Tommie Agee and infielder Al Weis.

Baltimore got two other new players for a total of five. They were pitcher John O'Donoghue and shortstop Gordon Lund from Cleveland.

The Mets, Cleveland and Philadelphia also got five players. New York's NL club got pitcher Al Jackson from St. Louis, first baseman-outfielder Art Shamsky from Cincinnati and catcher J. C. Martin from the White Sox in addition to Agee and Weis.

The Indians acquired outfielder Tommy Harper from Cincinnati, pitchers Eddie Fisher and Bob Scott and outfielder John Scruggs from Baltimore and outfielder Jose Cardenal from California.

The Phillies' new players are catcher Mike Ryan from Boston plus pitchers Woody Fryman, Harold Clem and Bill Laxton and infielder Don Money from Pittsburgh. The latter four came from Pittsburgh for pitcher Jim Bunning in the most recent trade last Saturday.

Four players each were acquired by Los Angeles and Houston. The Dodgers added shortstop Zoilo Versalles and pitcher Jim "Mudcat" Grant from Minnesota and infielder Paul Popovich and outfielder Jim Williams from the Chicago Cubs.

The Astros got pitcher Denny Lemaster and shortstop Denis Menke from Atlanta, pitcher Fred Gladding from Detroit and shortstop Hector Torres from California.

Each of the 20 big league clubs, except St. Louis and San Francisco, acquired at least one new player.

The Cards, though, got a new general manager, Bing Devine, who replaced Stan Musial.

Has Seven Days To Make Decision

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Coach Tex Winter of Kansas State says he has seven days to make a big decision. It involves a big man, 7-foot-1 Nick Pino.

"We may decide to go with our small team," Winter said Tuesday night after a 79-52 romp over North Dakota State at Manhattan.

"We have seven days to get ready for the Big Eight tournament and the conference season," he said. "We need this time badly. A month ago, we were a much better team. At that time, I thought we had a chance to be a great team. Now, I don't know."

K-State's "small team" likely would include four of the current starters. They are veteran 6-foot-7 Earl Seyfert, Gene Williams, a 6-7 junior college transfer, and a pair of 6-1 backliners, veteran Steve Honeycutt and juco transfer Louie Small.

The fifth man could be Wheeler Hughes, 6-1 sophomore, Ray Willis, 6-1 senior, or Jeff Webb, 6-4 sophomore.

Pino, a 270-pound senior, started strongly, but his recent run of poor shooting and lack of consistency and aggressiveness could bring a change to a go-go unit. K-State now stands 4-3.

Oklahoma dropped its fourth straight game, 82-71, to Wyoming at Norman in the only other contest. It dropped the Sooners to 3-4. OU lost despite 10-for-11 shooting and 21 points by 6-8 veteran Don Sidle and a 16-point game by Garfield Heard, a 6-foot-6 sophomore.

Winter's dependence on talented rookies and Heard's game points up the strong influx of new faces with gifted scoring ability this season in the Big Eight. Eight of the 25 men scoring in double figures are sophomores or juco transfers.

Two rookies rank among the top 10 scorers. They are Iowa State's 6-6 Bill Cain, fifth at 18.5, and Small, 8th with a 16.9 average. The top four—all seniors—are Don Smith of Iowa State at 25.5, Colorado's 6-4 Pat Frink at 23.4, 6-2 Chuck Williams of Colorado at 20.0 and Sidle with 18.7.

Every team has been helped by rookies. Oklahoma's Heard has a 10.6 mark to go with veterans Sidle and Willie Rogers, 11.7. Small leads K-State with Seyfert at 16.3 and Honeycutt 12.7. Colorado has 6-4 Mike Coleman, 11.3, to go with Frink, Williams and Mike Rebich, 10.3.

Nebraska has two sophomores in double figures—6-2 Tom Scantlebury at 15.1 and 6-4 Bob Gratop at 12.6—along with veterans Tom Baack, 18.1, and Stuart Lantz, 16.1. Missouri's top rookie is 6-4 Don Tomlinson at 15.2, with veterans Gene Jones, 17.7, and Tom Johnson, 15.5.

Kansas has 6-10 juco transfer Dave Nash at 14.5 and 6-3 sophomore Rich Bradshaw, 9.9, to go with veterans Jo Jo White, 16.3, and Phil Harmon, 10.2. Oklahoma State's three top scorers are veterans, with 6-5 Joe Smith at 13.1, little Gene Hawk 12.1 and Jack Herron 10.0. But Hawk didn't play much last year and OSU has had timely help from sophomores like 6-6 Rick Prewitt, 6-5 Rock Cooper and little Sparky Grober.

Tigers Lose To Hannibal

Height superiority proved too much for the Smith-Cotton Tigers here Tuesday night as they dropped their Central Missouri Conference season opener to Hannibal's Pirates, 61-40.

The loss dropped Smith-Cotton to a record of 3-5, while Hannibal picked up its fifth victory against two loses.

Opening the game, the Tigers jumped off to leads of 5-0 and 10-3, but Hannibal rallied to knot the score at the end of the first quarter, 1;-1;.

The Pirates continued their comeback in the second quarter, and at the half maintained a 29-24 advantage.

Returning refreshed from a half-time break, Hannibal took their five-point lead and stretched it through the second half to the final 21-point margin.

Balanced scoring characterized the Hannibal attack. Bridges was high point man with 16, but his efforts were bolstered substantially by Bonds and Murphy, who tallied 15 and 14 points, respectively.

Skip Tournquist had a big night for the Tigers, bagging six field goals and a pair of free throws for 14 points.

Jerry Morris and Tom Munson trailed with eight and seven respectively.

The Tigers' next action will be in the Marshall Christmas Tournament at Marshall, where they will meet the host team at 8:30 December 26.

Greyhounds Squeak By SH Gremlins

The Sweet Springs Greyhounds squeaked past the Sacred Heart Gremlins, 67-64, in non-conference basketball action at Sweet Springs Tuesday.

It was only the third defeat of the season for the Gremlins.

Sacred Heart opened the game with the style that has become the regular item for them, leading Sweet Springs 17-8 in the first quarter.

The Greyhounds, however, bounced back in the second period to narrow the gap a little, adding another point advantage in the third quarter.

Then, in the final period of play, Sweet Springs seemed to turn loose some of its reserve strength and over-powered the locals 22-14 to take the game.

Earl Gerke spearheaded Sedalia's drive with 22 tallies, but Ron Fischer was top man of the game with 25 points for Sweet Springs.

The "B" game went to the Gremlins, 35-29, with Joe Heer hitting for 11 points for Sedalia, while Temple was high for Sweet Springs with ten.

Sacred Heart's varsity is now 9-3 for the season and will take on St. Joseph in a home final before Christmas.

Eight Man Tag Team Event At Liberty Park

In an eight-man tag-team event, the team of Ronnie Etchison, Sonny Myers, Earl Maynard and the Ox whipped the foursome of Bob Geigel, The Viking, The Hangman and Bob Hamby in wrestling action's main event at Convention Hall, Liberty Park, Tuesday night.

Etchison used a judo chop and press to drop Hamby in ten minutes, 55 seconds with a haymaker and press to win the match.

In the special event, The Viking and Ronnie Etchison battled to a draw after 15 minutes, while in the opening match, the Ox, using a bear hug, felled the Hangman in five minutes, 22 seconds.

The semi-final event saw Myers win the match after Geigel was disqualified following 20 minutes and five seconds of brutal action.

Green Bay Linemen Have Chance At Their Critics

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay's aging offensive linemen get a chance Saturday to send their critics off for another long winter's rest.

The critics warned before the 1966 season that the Packer linemen were getting dangerously old. Green Bay silenced them by capturing a second consecutive National Football League title.

But the critics are at it again as the Packers prepare for Saturday's Western Conference playoff with the Los Angeles Rams in Milwaukee.

"When they talk about the old men, they are talking about Bob Skornoski and me," said All-Pro Forrest Gregg, 34, "not Jerry Kramer, he's only 31."

"Every time they mention my age, it's a challenge," said Skoronski, 33, the Packers' offensive captain. "You get very defensive."

If the critics are right, as eventually they may be, the age of the offensive linemen could be the Packers achilles' heel in the match with the Rams.

It will be up to the linemen to protect quarterback Bart Starr from one of football's most formidable pass rushes—that staged by the Ram front four of Lamar Lundy, Roger Brown, Merlin Olsen and Dave Jones.

The Ram rushers are substantially taller and heavier at every position than the Packer blockers opposing them. The size and weight could be handicaps for the Packers, but the age factor certainly won't be, said Fuzzy Thurston, 33.

"This is where age counts—in the big game," said Thurston, who has been eased out of the Packer starting line-up by the younger and larger Gale Gillingham, 23.

Thurston has probably played in more major games than anyone in football history. He has been with five championship teams, including the 1958 Baltimore Colts, and has played in 12 post-season games.

"It helps to have that experience," he said. If Gillingham, 6-foot-3, 253 pounds, should have trouble handling the 295-pound Brown, Thurston would be sent to left guard.

"He's quick and strong and intelligent. He's got all the physical and mental attributes. He's as good as any I've ever played against," Thurston said.

Gregg, 6-foot-4, 250 pounds, will be up against the 6-foot-5, 260-pound Jones. "He's a great football player. He's so quick. How do you handle him? That's the problem. He gives you real quick moves. That speed and quickness—that's the thing."

Skoronski, 6-foot-3, 245-pound tackle, had much the same things to say about the 6-foot-7, 260-pound Lundy. "The key is to avoid getting into third and 15 situations. When Baltimore got behind and had to pass, they just put their heads down and kept coming. You have to make them conscious of other things besides the pass, things like the sweep and the draw."

Kramer, 6-foot-3, 250 pounds, is usually at his best playing against the best. And few come better than Olsen, the Rams' 6-foot-5, 275-pound tackle.

"He's got good speed, good quickness, excellent strength, intelligence, great desire. He never slows down. He never quits on you. Those are his weak points," Kramer said.

Boonville Wins Both A And B Cage Games

Simple Solution Removes Plastic

By POLLY CRAMER

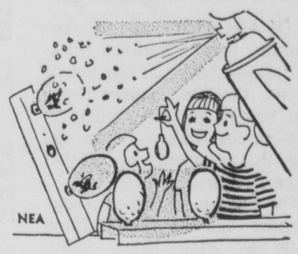
DEAR POLLY—I have a remedy for M. K.'s problem of plastic wrap adhering to her silver. This was sent to me by the chemical company making the wrap. Bring water to a boil in a pan large enough to fully immerse your pieces, and add from one-half to one cup of dishwashing detergent. Turn burner to simmer and add piece for two minutes. If the plastic does not float off in that time, try again, but two minutes was sufficient for mine. All the marks disappeared with silver polish. I used this on eight sterling pieces which are now in good shape.—JUDY

DEAR GIRLS—This worked well for me, too, BUT a few words of warning. Never use a sharp knife to hurry things along. DO NOT try this on any pieces that have been cemented together, such as knife handles, etc. It could also affect the appearance of oxodized patterns, so use with discretion.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—How does one de-fuzz cotton fringe? I have an overblouse edged with white cotton fringe and, when worn over black slacks, it fuzzes terribly. I tried wetting it but this did not help.—MRS. B. K.

DEAR POLLY—To make extra Christmas tree decorations, we save our used camera flash bulbs, spray snow on them and also apply glue and then sequins or glitter. They are very pretty and making them keeps the children amused when they are at home with a cold or the weather is too bad for them to go out to play.—MRS. H. J. S.



DEAR POLLY—When plastic table mats have become soiled and stained from constant use, but the backs are still firm, cover with adhesive-backed paper, such as you use for your kitchen cabinets. This adds color and a fresh look to the table and the mats are good for a long time. When they become soiled again, remove the paper and add another new color or pattern.—MARGARET

DEAR POLLY—When making handmade baby clothes I discovered that using No. 50 sewing thread for embroidery makes a daintier-looking garment. This thread comes in a wide variety of pastel colors.—MRS. M. A. P.

Cautious About Talk On Ability

NEW YORK (AP) — Oscar Robertson and Bill Bradley have met for the first time as professionals, and neither has gone out on a limb in discussing the other's ability.

The confrontation came Tuesday night, and Bradley's New York Knickerbockers beat Robertson's Cincinnati Royals 133-118 in a National Basketball Association game at Madison Square Garden.

"What can you say," the veteran Robertson commented when asked about Bradley.

"Time will tell. A year from now you can ask me."

Asked what he thought of Robertson, Bradley smiled, turned to teammate Dick Barnett and asked, "What do you think of Oscar Robertson?"

Then the $500,000 rookie added:

"He's the greatest basketball player in the world."

Another rookie — Earl Monroe — and veteran — Ray Scott — put on quite a show in Baltimore, but in this instance they were on the same team. The two combined for 59 points and led the Bullets past St. Louis 117-98. In the only other NBA game, the Boston Celtics topped the Seattle Supersonics 118-114.

Bradley, playing in his fifth NBA game, hit only three of 11 field goal attempts, but he did team with another rookie, Walt Frazier, to lead a fourth-quarter burst that clinched the victory for the Knicks.

Leading only 95-92 after three periods, New York opened up a 115-100 margin as Bradley and Frazier stole the ball, forced several Royal turnovers and set up baskets with slick passes. Bradley finished with eight points four assists and two rebounds.

Robertson, now in his seventh NBA season, scored 27 points — two less than New York's Willis Reed — handed out eight assists and grabbed seven rebounds. The Big O's points gave him a career total of 16,971, moving him into the fifth spot ahead of former Boston Celtic Bob Cousy in the all-time NBA scoring race.

Monroe scored 12 of his 32 points in the third quarter as Baltimore outscored St. Louis 31-17 and moved in front 82-64. Scott got eight of his 27 points in the period. Zelmo Beaty led the Hawks with 24.

Boston, trailing 92-84 in the third period, spurted past Seattle in its game on the West Coast. John Havlicke, Sam Jones and Bill Russell led the comeback that gave the Celtics the lead for good, 106-105.

Walt Hazzard of the Sonics scored a career high of 37 points, 29 in the second half. Larry Siegfried topped Boston with 20.

In American Basketball League action Tuesday, Pittsburgh blasted New Jersey 146-124, New Orleans edged Dallas 96-93 and Oakland outlasted Indiana 129-18.

Pipers' Ninth Win One of Best

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Pipers, moving up fast on the front-running Minnesota Muskies in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division, made their ninth straight victory one of their best.

The Pipers scored a league record 146 points in downing New Jersey 146-124 Tuesday night to move one-half game behind the Muskies.

In other ABA games Tuesday, New Orleans edged Dallas 96-93 and Oakland squeezed past Indiana 129-128.

In the National Basketball Association, Baltimore beat St. Louis 117-98, New York stopped Cincinnati 133-118 and Boston overhauled Seattle 118-114.

The Pipers threw in 80 points in the first half in eclipsing the Americans. Connie Hawkins led the way with 29 points, while Charlie Williams had 28 and Art Heyman had 25. Tony Jackson had 25 for New Jersey.

New Orleans maintained its seven-game lead in the Western Division with Doug Moe scoring 24 points. Cliff Hagan and John Beasley each had 20 for Dallas.

A 73-point uprising in the second half by Indiana just fell short and Oakland held on to hand the Pacers their seventh straight setback. The Oaks built a 24-point lead that Indiana overcame only to lose in the last four seconds of the game at Richmond, Calif.

Freddie Lewis of the Pacers headed the scorers with 43 points while Lavern Tart, the league's leading scorer, was high for Oakland, with 38.

Leads Team To Win

SALEM, Va. (AP) — Dwight Durante, at 5-foot-4, perhaps the smallest player in college basketball, scored 26 points to lead Catawba to an 84-69 victory over Milligan Tuesday night.

Namath Is Named East's Quarterback

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Joe Namath, who has completed more passes than any other player in the American Football League, will quarterback the East team in the AFL All-Star game Jan. 21 in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl.

Namath will have his two top receivers of the New York Jets, George Sauer and Don Maynard, along with him.

The East team's top 22 All-Stars announced Monday night by AFL President Milt Woodard, reflect the balanced Eastern Division of the league. Six are from Buffalo, five each from New York, Houston and Boston and one from Miami.

Coach Joe Collier of Buffalo will name 11 other players, including a backup quarterback, for the East All-Stars he will coach.

The top 22 for the West will be named Thursday and their leader, Coach Lou Saban of Denver, will pick 11 more.

No More Laughs For Davidson

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Some folks laughed when Davidson, beaten in 12 of 27 games last season, made the Top Ten in The Associated Press preseason poll in college basketball.

They're not laughing any more at the Southern Conference Wildcats, who have won seven of eight games and lost only to third-ranked Vanderbilt by two points 81-79 in overtime.

The Wildcats, sixth-ranked in this week's AP poll, made previously unbeaten Temple their latest victims in the final of the Charlotte, N.C., Invitational Tournament Tuesday night.

Paced by the 6-foot-6 Mike Maloy, a sophomore from New York City who was voted the Most Valuable Player of the tourney, the Wildcats downed the Owls from Philadelphia 63-60.

Maloy made only 11 points, but his floor generalship was superb and drew praise from Coach Lefty Driesell. "He's so quick, he's unreal," Driesell said. "He has every move in the book under the hoop."

Fifth-ranked Indiana, Duke, St. Bonaventure, Louisville, Cincinnati, Wyoming and Louisiana State won in other major games.

Indiana, led by Earl Schneider's 23 points, beat Notre Dame 96-91 at Fort Wayne, despite Bob Whitmore's 30 points for the Irish.

On-rushing Duke, another team beaten only by Vanderbilt and that by one point, whipped Princeton 85-79 at Durham, N.C., behind Mike Lewis' 33 points and 20 rebounds.

Bob Lanier and Bill Butler combined for 50 points, each got 25, to lead St. Bonaventure to an 83-77 victory over Seattle in the final of the Tampa, Fla., Invitational.

Louisville beat St. Louis on the road 76-64 as Westley Unseld, who finished with 20, broke loose for 18 points in the second half.

Rick Roberson's 25 points paced Cincinnati to a 69-58 home court victory over Southern California. Harry Hall also got 25 to lead Wyoming over Oklahoma on the road, 82-71.

Pistol Pete Maravich flipped in 46 points on his home court to spark Louisiana State over Mississippi 81-68. LSU now has won four games, one more than all of last season.

Auburn beat Rutgers 70-62 in the consolation game of the Tampa Invitational. Miami of Ohio took third place in the Charlotte Invitational by defeating Rice 70-66 in overtime.

Dennis Cantrell's field goal in the last 31 seconds gave Miami, Fla., a 72-71 home squeaker over Brown. In other home court victories, Ohio State downed New Mexico State, 78-75, Utah State beat San Jose, 110-93, Montana took Fresno State, 88-72 and Kansas State humbled North Dakota State 79-52.

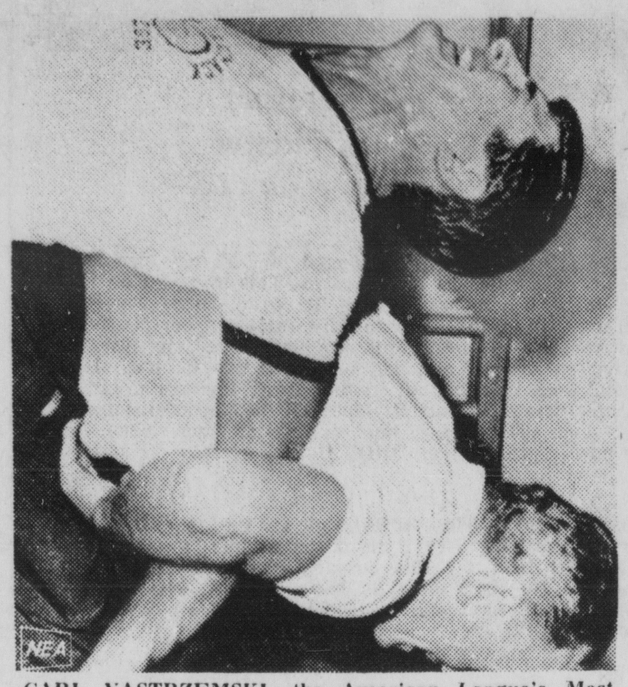
On the road, Ohio University edged Portland 67-65 and Wagner overcame Seton Hall 99-91. On neutral courts, Duquesne whipped Kent State 78-63 at Canton, Ohio, and Arkansas defeated Centenary at Little Rock, Ark., 90-82.

Signs New Contract

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Charley Winner signed a new two-year contract as head coach of the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday, signaling open season on trades for the National Football League club.

William Bidwill, club vice president said Tuesday the 43-year-old Winner will be free to make player deals.

Winner indicated he was less than happy with the 40-man squad that finished third in the Century Division this season with a 6-7-1 mark. He charged some players didn't put out 100 per cent over the season.



CARL YASTRZEMSKI, the American League's Most Valuable Player, has already started training for the 1968 season in which the Boston Red Sox will defend the AL pennant. Yaz (top) reflects the strain of conditioning with trainer Gene Berde.

Kings' Slump Ends With Scoring Surge

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Before Tuesday night's National Hockey League battle at the Sports Arena, the Los Angeles Kings had scored just five goals in five games, had a 1-4 record over that span and had suffered three shutouts.

The slump ended Tuesday evening against the Oakland Seals as wing Brian Smith scored a pair of goals to lead the Kings to a 3-1 victory.

The Oakland-Los Angeles game was the only NHL game scheduled Tuesday night. In action Wednesday night, Toronto is at Montreal, Detroit at New York, Boston at Chicago, and the St. Louis Blues at Oakland.

Rams Put Their Hopes On the Line

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was Billy Truax, a young giant who plays for the Los Angeles Rams and may now be known as the sage of the bayou land of Louisiana, who recently observed:

"It's a short trip from the penthouse to the outhouse."

Truax, who plays tight end and doesn't get as much acclaim as his companion passcatchers, Bernie Casey and Jack Snow, was thinking of the Rams' continued success this season.

The idea applies as much as ever to the Rams' next brush with danger, the Green Bay Packers in Milwaukee Saturday.

A loss for the Western Conference championship means the switch from the penthouse.

Truax, who played end for Louisiana State University before coming to the Rams in 1964 in a trade with Cleveland, stands 6-5, weighs 235 and has a neck size comparable to teammate Roger Brown's thigh.

He has caught 37 of Roman Gabriel's passes for 487 yards and scored four touchdowns.

The last one, from nine yards out, put Los Angeles too far out of reach for the Baltimore Colts to match in the Rams' 34-10 romp over the Colts last Sunday.

It was Baltimore's star, Johnny Unitas, who summed up the success of the Rams' offense. He pointed out the maturing of Gabriel, the hard running of fullback Les Josephson — and the savage blocking and adept receptions on short throws of Billy Truax.

In the first game at Baltimore, Truax was the prime pass target. He caught six from Gabriel and was a big man in an important 24-24 tie.

In the Washington game a clutch pass-run by Billy for 43 yards spurred the Rams to the tying touchdown, and against Detroit his catch in the end zone put the team out of reach of the Lions.

Statistics Show That Raiders Are Leaders

NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland's Western Division champion Raiders clinched their title two weeks ago and haven't lost since October. It stands to reason that they are leading in more than the standings.

Statistics released by the American Football League today confirm that suspicion.

The Raiders lead the league in both over-all offense and over-all defense. You can't get much better than that.

Oakland had gained 4,844 yards rushing and passing, 121 more than the New York Jets, who lead in passing offense with 3,529 yards and are second in over-all offense.

Kansas City leads in rushing offense with 2,018 yards gained.

Defensively, the Raiders have allowed 3,084 yards and also lead in rushing defense with only 1,037 yards allowed.

Buffalo's pass defense which has permitted just 1,726 yards, leads that department.

Battered Backs Are Ready Again

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Football's most battered up quarterbacks are ready to match pains in the big game of the year for Dallas and Cleveland.

It's the playoff for the Eastern Conference championship and the Cowboys and Browns get together Sunday in the Cotton Bowl.

And the hopes of both Dallas and Cleveland will ride on the passing arms of the two fugitives from a hospital—Frank Ryan of the Browns and Don Meredith of the Cowboys.

Both have been battered and bruised throughout the season. Meredith even got pneumonia and missed three games.

Dallas and Cleveland both present strong running games and it seems the passing should make the difference.

Happily it is reported that the quarterbacks both have their throwing arms in shape and both are willing to risk those pass rushes although they aren't very nimble considering their ailments.

Ryan has a bruised left forearm. It can't hamper his throwing but if it was hurt again it might get him out of the game where he couldn't throw at all.

Meredith has a broken nose and a twisted knee but he was laying 'em in there in practice Tuesday, indicating a return to form at just the right time.

"And now all we have to do is keep those guys (pass rushers) off of him," said tackle Ralph Neely.

Meredith has missed 4¼ games this season and his passing has suffered mostly from lack of practice and game action.

Ryan has been playing, too, although he probably ought to be in a wheel chair at times. He sprained his ankle in practice before the season started, he sprained the other one in the opening game of the season—against Dallas, which the Cowboys won 21-14. He played with two sprained ankles and one bruised finger on his passing hand and Cleveland lost to Detroit.

He got a bunged up right shoulder in the second period of the game with New Orleans but only missed one series of downs, leading the Browns to victory. Three games later he got a collar bone injury against Chicago, left the game and got patched up, then returned to score the first touchdown as Cleveland won 24-0.

Taylor Only Man To Defend Has Own Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Washington's Charley Taylor, the National Football League's top pass receiver in 1966, is the only individual champion to defend his crown successfully, NFL statistics disclosed today.

Taylor caught 70 passes, two less than last year, beating out teammate Jerry Smith who had 67. Bobby Mitchell was fourth with 60, giving the Redskins the best showing ever by a trio of receivers on the same team.

The man who threw to that trio, Sonny Jurgensen, wound up as the top passer in the league and also set three records—508 attempts, 288 completions and 3,747 yards.

Cleveland's Leroy Kelly won the rushing title, gaining 1,205 yards, and Jim Bakken of St. Louis won the scoring race with 117 points.

Rookie Lem Barney of Detroit and Dave Whitsell of New Orleans tied for the pass interception lead with 10 each, but Barney posted more return yardage, 232 to 178.

Atlanta's Billy Lothridge was the top punter with a 43.7 average. Ben Davis of Cleveland led all punt returners with a 12.7 average and Travis Williams of Green Bay was the best kickoff returner with an average of 41.1 yards.

Deepwater Wins Over Green Ridge

The Deepwater Demons were victorious Tuesday night beating the Green Ridge Tigers 84 to 66. The Demons outscored the Tigers the first three periods by a wide margin and the Tigers were unable to capture the early lead made by the Deepwater squad.

Making the high tallies for Deepwater was Chris Chaney scoring 22 points. For Green Ridge Greg Richardson and Paul Knoernerschild, both marked 19 points.

Score by quarters:

Deepwater	20	21	22	21—84
Green Ridge	11	13	18	24—66

Individual scoring:
Deepwater — J. Chaney, 12; Hendrix, 16; C. Chaney, 22; Justice, 15; Sapp, 16; Wirsig, 2.
Green Ridge — Ray 8; Richardson, 19; Dove, 6; Knoernerschild, 19; Bowlin, 2; Dailey, 3.

The Demons also took the "B" team match outscoring the Tigers 52 to 47. Brown scored 11 points for Green Ridge coming out high man, and for Deepwater Thompson tallied 12 times.

Deepwater plays again Jan. 2 in the Lone Jack Tournament.

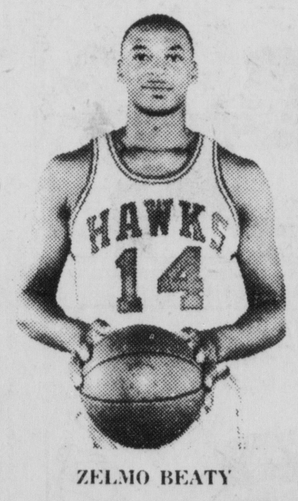
Hawks Don't Need Any 'Superstars'

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Whatever a superstar is, the St. Louis Hawks don't possess one. Right now they don't need one.

The Hawks have been one of the NBA's hottest teams, leading the Western Division from the start. They've done it without anyone named Oscar, Nate, Russell, Elgin or Jerry.

"We have no superstars," said coach Richie Guerin.



ZELMO BEATY

"We just have stars. We have some great players who want to play—and win.

"We may be the best conditioned team in basketball, and that's one big reason we're winning. We're strong finishers. We wear the other clubs down.

"That's especially true on defense. We want to play it the whole game. We never let up."

The Hawks have also come back several times from 20-point deficits to win.

"We're running," said Joe Caldwell, a forward-guard, "and no one can catch us."

Center Zelmo Beaty and playmaker Lennie Wilkens are literally just short of becoming superstars, according to their coach.

"Zelmo is only 6-9 and Lennie is 6-1," said Guerin, "they're almost at superstar stature. But both are small for their positions. Bill Bridges (forward) is up near the best, too."

Beaty believes that not having a superstar has a positive effect on the Hawks.

"Superstars get their reputations on offense," said Beaty. "They live with the ball. On our team, we've got five guys on the court working, and shooting. When one guy gets the hot hand, we feed him. We seem to have a different high scorer every night, night.

"Other things have helped, too. I'm having my best year. Paul Silas is 20 pounds lighter than last year and doing a great job, both shooting, and rebounding. He's been a tremendous surprise."

Wilkens becomes indignant when the term superstar is used. "What is a superstar?" he asks rhetorically. "It's someone who can do everything, right? Well, there is only one of that kind in our league — Oscar Robertson. Elgin Baylor was before hurting his knee.

"And who makes a superstar? Two things. The press and a lot of offense. Take a guy like Beaty. If he wanted to take 30 shots a game and then shower the place with press releases, he could be a so-called superstar. He can shoot with any center in the league."

The Hawks are without two prominent players from last season. One is last season's high scorer, Lou Hudson, who is on active duty in the Army (though he has traveled off the base to play in five games). The other is Guerin, who retired as a player this year.

"We miss Lou on offense," said Guerin, "and the few times he has played this season he just hasn't been in top condition. He plays very little in the Army. He'll be back full time in January.

"But we don't miss me at all. I couldn't take the pace."

Probe Mafia's Influence In New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan is investigating suspected Cosa Nostra influence in more than one city department, according to published reports.

The reports Tuesday came after a federal grand jury indicted former Water Commissioner James L. Marcus and a reputed Cosa Nostra leader in an alleged $40,000 kickback on an $800,000 city contract.

Mayor John V. Lindsay told a news conference Tuesday that if the federal charge against Marcus were true, "then it's clear that Mr. Marcus lied to me."

"To say I have been ill served and the public also is an understatement," he said of the worst scandal in his two-year Republican administration. "I consider this a betrayal of a personal and public trust."

Lindsay declared that he fired Marcus, his friend and a key aide, after Marcus became the object of an investigation by Hogan's office. The letter of resignation was worded to appear voluntary.

The mayor said it would be improper for him to comment on reports that other city departments were being investigated.

Marcus, 37, was indicted with Cosa Nostra bigwig Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo and four other men Monday on charges of conspiring to violate federal antiracketeering laws.

Corallo posted $10,000 bond and the others were freed without bond pending a hearing. The maximum penalty upon conviction for each defendant is five years in federal prison and a $10,000 fine.

Self-Expression

An anti-commercialsim Scrooge-type Christmas sign is displayed over the door of Richard Burkett's home in suburban Arlington Heights, Ill. Burkett erected the illuminated, three-feet-high sign, reading "Baah, Humbug," but he said the expression isn't aimed at the Yuletide spirit but "the way it's being commercialized." (UPI)

THE NEWS in Brief

LONDON (AP) — Sir Thomas More, who was beheaded because he would not recognize Henry VIII as head of the English church, will not be granted a pardon, Home Secretary James Callaghan has ruled 400 years later.

Benjamin Whitaker, a Roman Catholic member of parliament, suggested that More, who was convicted of high treason, be given a posthumous pardon before a Plaque commemorating his trial is unveiled next year in Westminster Hall.

Callaghan gave no reason for his refusal.

More, whose life was dramatized in the play and the movie "A Man for All Seasons," lived from 1478 to 1535, when he was beheaded on King Henry's order. He had succeeded Cardinal Wolsey as Lord Chancellor of England.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A joint legislative committee begins work today on a new congressional districting plan for Ohio. The legislature will tackle the problem when it reconvenes Jan. 15.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Dec. 4 that the plan in force for the 1966 elections did not meet the court's one-man, one-vote requirement.

Gov. James A. Rhodes presented a plan to the joint committee Monday. Based on the 1960 census, the largest of the 24 districts would have a population of 406,093, the smallest 404,433.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Sunday school rooms at Charlotte's First Presbyterian Church have been converted into dormitories for 75 foreign students with no relatives to visit over the holidays.

The church is one of 13 in the South and East setting up International Houses. All reportedly have had to turn away students who heard about the program through their embassies.

While in Charlotte, the 75 international visitors will be guests of several churches and civic groups through New Year's Day.

GARDNER, Mass. (AP) — There's a dentist in Gardner who can hardly wait for Halloween.

Dr. Charles E. Martel figured that most of the youngsters in his neighborhood probably would eat much more candy than was good for them, so last year he ordered a large supply of toothbrushes to give to the trick-or-treaters arriving at his front door.

The shipment was too late for Halloween of 1967, but on Nov. 1, 1968 those small fry will be able to brush those potential cavities away.

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A policeman can suspend your driver's license here if he stops you for a routine check, or for any other reason, and smells the slightest liquor on your breath.

The new British Columbia law, passed in 1966 but not put into effect until this year, is designed to take the drinking driver out of his car for the time his ability might be impaired by booze.

No charges are involved. A driver's only recourse is to ask for an on-the-spot breath test, or get an immediate blood test from his doctor.

SP-4 Chriss Lemler has been awarded the title, "Soldier of the Month," of the 70th Engineers. He is presently stationed at Pleikee, South Vietnam, where he will serve until April. University's Research Will Not Be Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials maintain federal agencies will follow new guidelines barring secret government backing of university research abroad even though no enforcement machinery has been provided.

The department's 14-point guidelines published Tuesday specify: "The fact of government research support should always be acknowledged by sponsor, university, and researcher."

In short, a U.S. government financial grant for studies undertaken at a foreign college or university would be made public by the government as well as the university.

But State Department officials acknowledged that while many federal agencies dealing in overseas research projects have adopted the guidelines, there's no existing way to force compliance from any agency that desires to keep secret its connection to such projects.

Neither do the guidelines legally or administratively bind the State Department's Foreign Affairs Research Council, set up to oversee granting of research contracts following a 1965 uproar over a secret Chile project.

The 1965 incident resulted from disclosure that the Army had put researchers in Chile to study potentially disruptive social and political factors. Some critics contended it appeared the Department of the Army was attempting to mount a counter-insurgency effort in the Latin American nation.

Said the new department recommendations:

"Covert support to institutions of higher education is contrary to national policy, on the broad and vital principle that it runs contrary to the spirit of our institutions, and on the pragmatic basis that it may reduce the reliability and credibility of the research project's conclusions and eventually result in damage to the reputation of our scholarly community."

News Briefs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Crandon Park's baby aardvark will have a name by Christmas.

The list of entries—1,346 names—has been narrowed to 35. A secret showdown session, says the zoo, will be held this week to end the suspense.

The park's donkey-eared, long-nosed aardvark was born Sept. 24, the first aardvark ever born in an American zoo, the first in the world to survive birth in captivity.

The name contest was begun in October. Entries came in from three dozen states and as far away as Iceland.

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — Rivalries between the armed forces were evident Tuesday after Army, Air Force and Navy personnel arrived at Window Rock to help in rescue operations on the snow-stricken Navajo Indian reservation.

The Air Force arrived first and a sign was erected at the Window Rock airport which proclaimed, "Welcome to Window Rock Air Force Base."

The Army then arrived and the sign was altered to read "Welcome to Window Rock Army Base."

After three Navy helicopters arrived the word "Army" was scratched out and replaced by the word "Naval."

The sign now says, "Welcome to Window Rock Joint Operations Base."

LONDON (AP) — The government introduced Tuesday night a bill to tighten Britain's loose laws on gaming houses.

Under it, gaming clubs and casinos would be liable to inspection and croupiers and other staff people would hold licenses that could be revoked if foul play is proved.

Gaming on credit would be banned. Slot machines would be limited to two per club.

The bill will not affect laws on horse betting, lotteries and football pools.

Loopholes in previous betting acts brought a mushroom growth of gaming clubs and a consequent upsurge in gangsterism and protection rackets.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — J. J. Curry, who liked to tell the story of how an insurance company turned him down on a life insurance policy in 1899 as a bad risk, died Tuesday. He was 99.

HUNGARIAN CALORIE COUNT

Legal Point By Fugitive Is Accepted

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — George B. Edmondson, 30, a fugitive from Missouri law who fled to Canada and became a respected construction engineer, won a legal point Tuesday, but he still is not a free man.

His plea that a 10-year Missouri prison sentence hanging over him since 1965 be set aside was granted. Judge Ray E. Watson of the Jasper County Circuit Court then followed that ruling with another, that he be held for further proceedings, possibly another trial.

It would be his third on the same charge, of robbing a Springfield, Mo., store in 1961. His court-appointed attorney, James Dunn, said he believes another trial unlikely. The principal witness against Edmondson, Sheriff Glen Hendrix of nearby Greene County, died two weeks ago, Dunn explained.

Edmondson was sentenced to 30 years imprisonment in his first trial in 1962. He fought the conviction for three years and won a new trial. At that trial, in 1965, he pleaded guilty and received the 10-year term. Watson was the presiding judge.

Watson's ruling Tuesday was on Dunn's motion the sentence be vacated on grounds that Edmondson had been inadequately represented by counsel in his 1965 trial. The judge denied another defense claim that the sentence was "cruel, unusual, inhuman, or excessive."

Edmondson escaped from the Missouri Penitentiary six months after imprisonment in 1965. He was once listed by the FBI as one of its 10 most-wanted criminals. Edmondson was recognized and arrested last June in Shawville, Quebec, where he was the supervising engineer of a $600 million paper mill. He had also married and, at the time of his arrest, was the father of a newborn son.

During his freedom in Canada, Edmondson taught himself engineering, and before going to Shawville, he was the chief engineer of the West German pavilion at Expo 67 in Montreal.

After his return to Missouri, he was sentenced to two additional years imprisonment for escaping from the state penitentiary. No disposition of that sentence was made at Tuesday's hearing.

Santa Claus Is Accepted By Citizens

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Unlike many cities, Manhattan has no alms-askers on its business section streets during the Christmas season.

How would Manhattan residents react if a Santa Claus set up shop on the streets?

To find out, the Manhattan Mercury decked out photographer-writer Tim Fields in a Santa suit. He had a tripod topped with a sign reading, "Give to Santa's Christmas Fund." A container hung from the tripod and signs on it simply said, "Give."

Santa carried a box of candy for the kiddies—and in case he was challenged about "what fund," he had a letter from editor Bill Colvin of the Mercury attesting that prior arrangements had been made with the city police. The letter also stated that any funds collected would be divided between the Firemen's Toy Fund and the Christmas-For-All Committee, both of which provide toys, clothing and food for the needy at Christmas.

Fields never was challenged during the hour and a half he was on the corner, even though one of those he greeted with a "Yo, ho, ho, Merry Christmas" was Sheriff James Tubach—who was not in on the secret.

"Frankly I was pretty scared the first five minutes or so," said Fields, "but when people responded so often to my greetings I got into the spirit of it."

Youngsters, Fields found, were the most responsive, although he said he had the feeling that grown-ups probably were just too bashful in many cases and gave the money to their children to put in the pot.

Fields collected nearly $20, plus one Canadian nickel. The money was turned over to the two Christmas agencies.

In writing a story for the Mercury on his experience, Fields said he noticed few "scrooge" types passing by. But in the story, which was in the form of Santa reporting to Mrs. Claus on how people here responded, he said:

"As I climbed into my sleigh to return to the North Pole all my fears were gone, for I knew that with that kind of a giving spirit, the people of Manhattan would enjoy a warm and Merry Christmas."

Many beetles, ants and termites are skilled gardeners that grow lush crops of fungi in their nests.

The program gave a reverent and inspirational portrayal in music and in appropriate selections from the Bible of the coming of Christ.

Gov. George Romney glances up at one of the items on display at a space exhibit in Moscow. Romney spent 15 minutes hurrying through the cavernous, unheated building where the Soviets maintain a display of their space triumphs, complete with spaceship and rocket models. Romney, the only announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1968, is on a world tour that will end at Christmas in Vietnam. (UPI)

PART PAYMENT IN CASH

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP)—Silver coins worth 20,000 Australian dollars ($22,400 U.S.) have been delivered to primitive tribesmen in part payment for timber rights.

Helicopters dropped in on 12 different clans in the Jimi Valley to deliver the 2,000 pounds weight of cash in bags, each of 25 pounds.

The administration agreed to pay the tribesmen 180,000 Australian dollars $201,600 U.S.) for the rights to cut timber over 209,000 acres of their forests, in cash, and agreed to invest the balance in a government loan.

The local people of New Guinea have a great liking for the old Australian shilling, which is still in circulation and is now worth 10 cents.

They usually bury the coins, and dig them up when they need a little spending money.

IN THE NEWS

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — In a physical combat proficiency test for Company E of the 3rd Brigade's 4th Infantry Battalion, one soldier posted the highest score ever recorded in the company. And he ran the fastest mile of any of its 200 Army trainees.

Company officers proudly identified the soldier today as Pvt. John J. Wooden Legs, a Cheyenne Indian from Lame Deer, Mont.

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A fight broke out in a florist shop and police were called as two family factions argued over flowers for a relative's funeral.

Four persons were arrested in the plant-throwing fracas and the store operators said they had to close for three hours to clean up the mess.

Both sides of the family refused to discuss the incident, saying, "It's a family matter."

Furor From Population Limit Idea

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Dr. William Bradford Shockley said today a baby rationing plan he outlined in a recent speech has made him the innocent center of a furor.

Many indignant persons, he said, got the impression that he had urged the sterilization of American women as a population control measure and the curtailment of welfare and school improvement programs for slum Negroes.

Shockley said he didn't urge any such thing.

The controversy arose from a lecture the Stanford University physicist gave last week at McMaster University in Hamilton, Ont.

Shockley, who shared the Nobel Prize in 1956 as co-inventor of the transistor, told the audience that he personally had "no eugenics recommendations save that as a nation we start to explore publicly possible solutions to human quality problems."

But he went on to discuss what he called a "thinking exercise" a combination of two birth control proposals, one by Dr. Kenneth Boulding of the Institute of Behavioral Science at the University of Colorado and the other by the Population Council.

As modified and offered to the audience by Shockley this is how the plan would work:

The public would vote on what rate of population growth it wants. This would let the Census Bureau determine how many children each couple could have and still keep within the prescribed national growth rate. Certificates would be issued to all married couples.

All girls would be temporarily sterilized by time capsule contraceptives. When a woman and her husband wanted to have a child, the contraceptive would be removed and they would have to turn in a certificate.

After the child was born, the contraceptive would be reinserted. Couples not wishing to have children or not wanting as many as the law allowed could sell their certificates on the open market.

"After you have recovered from any emotion-provoking jar from this unfamiliar combination of concepts," Shockley told his McMasters listeners, "do apply your brain to the time-capsule child-certificate proposal.

"What would be its consequence? Only people who want and can afford children will have them."

Turning to the problem of large families in Negro areas, Shockley said studies he has made suggest that "high illegitimate ghetto birthrates have caused Negro genetic potential for intelligence to drop five or more I.Q. points compared to whites between World War I and now."

He said, "I approve of anti-poverty programs in general and Headstart in particular" but added:

"Unrealistic hope for speeding the Negro's struggle for equality before the real causes of his disadvantages are known may unwittingly inflict untold human suffering on the Negroes themselves."

Food Dealers Planning Party

The Sedalia Food Dealers will have their annual Christmas party Thursday evening at Flat Creek Inn starting with a smorgasbord at 7:15 p.m.

William C. Dick, president, will have charge of the program, with Rev. William Lusk, rector of Calvary Episcopal Church, to bring the Christmas story.

The following newly elected officers will be installed: Glen Lewis, president; James Dick, vice-president; Frank Henderson, treasurer; Ernest Goldsmith, sergeant at arms; directors; William Dick, chairman, Virgil Corson, Guy Robinson, Joe F. Rains, Fred Evans, Bud Greer and Leonard Corson.

Special music will be by The Notables, directed by Jim Edwards.

The remainder of the evening will be spent in games.

STILL PRACTICING UNTOUCHABILITY

JULLUNDUR, India (AP) — A government committee reported untouchability is still widely practiced, although banned by law.

The committee said a nationwide tour showed them untouchables were not allowed to ride bicycles in Madras, to walk with shoes on in Mysore or to take water from municipal taps in New Delhi.

In Ratlam, a city in Madhya Pradesh State, the committee said untouchables are not even allowed to turn up the tips of their moustaches.

Housing Industry Beset By Its Share of Trouble

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For an industry with a long-range future assured by rising population and incomes, housing seems to be unusually beset by short-term problems.

It is, in fact, America's problem industry, and not entirely through its own fault.

Last year tight money forced the industry as close to a depression as it has experienced in the past 20 years. The number of houses on which work was begun fell to the lowest level since World War II despite population increases.

The recovery has been steady since last year's low annual rate of 848,000 private housing starts. Money has again become plentiful and contractors have reassembled crews and are back to work.

The latest figures on housing, released this week, seem to indicate a healthy giant, and maybe it is. Housing starts in November rose for the fifth straight month, reaching an annual rate of 1,556,000 units, nearly 72 per cent higher than the 1966 low.

But, coincidental with these figures are some less encouraging symptoms: mortgage interest has now risen to its highest rate of the year, prices are up and housing permits, which foretell future construction, are lower.

In other words, housing may be headed for trouble once again, with money once more the disease in a body that otherwise might be in roaring good health.

This is what new home purchasers were offered in October: interest rate, 6.52 per cent; length of loan, 24.4 years; loan to purchase price ratio, 74 per cent; and purchase price, $27,500.

These are averages from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and include rather widely differing rates for savings and loan associations, life insurance companies, mortgage companies and commercial and mutual savings banks. But, as averages, they still tell a story.

Average interest rates actually were lower in October than a year earlier, but a steady increase for several weeks accelerated in November, and rates now are near last year's high. In addition, home prices have risen $1,800 in one year.

Partially offsetting these costlier factors are steadily rising incomes for most families, more jobs and less unemployment. Few analysts believe, however, that these financial pluses offset the higher costs of buying a home.

The most disturbing aspect of the present situation is that the demand for housing is building up powerfully and, if mortgages were available at more reasonable rates, would amount to a boom.

The biggest demand, potentially, is from the large number of persons born immediately after World War II. Another source of demand is from the great number of families which last year postponed purchases.

As a result, vacancy rates are now at their lowest of the 1960s, a fact that can be established in many areas of the country simply by checking the number of units vacant in any large apartment house.

Because of this potential demand, many economists foresee a market of two million homes a year by the early 1970s.

ANCIENT ARTIFACTS that may date back 3,000 years were discovered when construction workers unearthed an Indian burial ground and garbage dump on California's Tiburon Peninsula. Spear point, left, and shell beads were among items said to relate to similar findings that have been dated by radio-carbon analysis to go as far back as 4,400 years.

Rex Harrison Prefers Simple 'Peasant Life'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Rex Harrison says he can't understand why he is regarded as sophisticated.

I don't feel at all suave, velvet or sophisticated," he said, taking a modest sip of prelucheon champagne in his hotel suite.

"I'm not sophisticated at all. Otherwise, I wouldn't live on top of a hill and make wine. I'm happiest when I'm living the life of a peasant, which is about the best you can do."

When their careers permit, he and his wife, Rachel Roberts, live the simple life together with five cats and a basset hound named Homer at a small hillside estate at Portofino on the Italian Riviera. There they make wine from their own grapes.

"I make about 12 or 14 demijohns a year," said the film star. "Right now I've got quite a backlog. I suppose I'll have to get some labels made and flog it to the village."

The 59-year-old actor, who is as disarming in person as he is charming on the screen, is momentarily at loose ends following the completion of "Dr. Dolittle," the animal classic in which he speaks to several species, ranging from a crocodile to a goldfish, in their own tongues.

During the filming of this $20-million epic he became one of the handful of people who have ever taken a ride on a giraffe's back.

"It was done with great care—the animal had to be trained for a year," said Harrison, who enjoyed working with the animals.

Rex, having appeared in some 31 films, believes he'd like to direct one for a change.

I asked Rex what he thought his biggest virtue as a human being was, and his biggest defect.

"Well," he said, "my philosophy is that one should make the most of every moment of one's life. That implies dedication, and whether I'm working or playing I try to do it in a dedicated manner.

"As to faults, I have many, but I suppose the greatest is introversion, or self-absorption, which is probably true of most actors. But we get rid of it to some extent through our performances."

What are the things you like, Rex?

"The sun most of all. I'm very fond of first light and sunsets—the opportunity of meeting a great number of people, but also being solitary at times—country sounds rather than city sounds—bird sounds, particularly—reading—three-button jackets—tweed suits—the music of clarinets and flutes—the feeling of hardly ever being bored—and spirited women.

"Spirited women can cause a tremendous lot of bother, but they are well worth it.

And what are your dislikes, Rex?

"Snobs—people who try to be what they aren't and have affectations that don't become them—women who have no real interests beyond their social life—sitting through an opera, that will show you how lowbrow I am—and having my house burgled. It's happened to me more than once, and I find it a very spooky experience."

A royal decree by King Tiridates in the 4th Century made Armenia the world's first Christian state, the National Geographic says. Tiridates was a convert of St. Gregory.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many members of Congress talked a lot about budget-cutting economy, but many of the same members voted millions of dollars for new or bigger spending on projects of home state interest.

This emerges from a study of the record of the first session of the 90th Congress which adjourned last Friday on the eve of an election year.

For example:

—Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., brought off a $1 billion foreign aid cut, the biggest in history, as chairman of a house subcommittee. He also won approval of an unbudgeted $40,000 seawall at Monroe in his northeast Louisiana district.

—Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., while frequently denouncing Johnson administration "Great Society" spending, was seeking an unbudgeted $728,000 to dredge a channel in Harrison County in his Mississippi Gulf Coast district.

—Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., supported efforts on the Senate floor to eliminate unbudgeted public works projects. But he earlier tried to get two for his home state, $225,000 for planning in connection with the Trinity River Basin project, and $25,000 for a comprehensive study of the Red River above Denison.

Such examples of "pork barrel" projects followed a well-established congressional pattern.

Likewise, economizers in Congress displayed little interest in reducing its own operations, the vast defense budget—which accounts for half of all federal spending—or such things as the supersonic transport, veterans benefits or the fight against Communism.

Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee put it into perspective Oct. 4 when he rebuked fellow committee member Garner E. Shriver, a Kansas Republican.

Mahon noted that Shriver, who led the fight to cut foreign aid funds, has been "a star for economy in the Committee on Appropriations" but was opposing a reduction in federal school aid for his district.

"The gentleman from Kansas wanted to achieve economy but not at the expense of his district. But I must say," Mahon added, "that most all of us are alike in that regard."

Mahon was saying, in effect, that many who advocate budget slashing react quite differently when the needs of their own district are at stake.

A case in point is Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., who operates with Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, as the chief House watchdogs on spending and hidden costs.

"It is time a Congress which controls appropriations begins to cut off the water in budgets and debts at its source," Hall told the House Feb. 8 in opposing an increase in the legal ceiling on the national debt.

But on March 14, the Missouri Republican wrote to the House Appropriations Committee asking it to add $125,000 to funds for range management and research in connection with conversion of brush land to pasture.

"I'm convinced this is an important program whose benefits are well worth the cost," Hall said in defense of his request to exceed President Johnson's budget requests.

On May 9, Hall argued before a closed session of an Appropriations subcommittee for a $6.5 million increase over budget estimates for construction at Kaysinger and Stockton reservoirs in his district.

But Hall also was making an "economy" record on the House floor by voting to cut appropriation bill spending by five per cent, and against some of the appropriations measures themselves.

He voted against the Treasury-Post Office bill, the Interior measure and the independent offices bill, which contains urban housing funds. But like Gross, he supported the public works and agriculture measures.

When federal spending became a big issue, Rep. Charles E. Joelson, D-N.J., got quite a laugh when he suggested that one way to cut it would be for each member to make a list of projects in his district that could be eliminated.

Joelson, one of the sharper wits in Congress, brought the House down with an assurance: "I am willing to practice what I preach."

"If every member submits that list for his district," Joelson said, "I will be the 435th member to submit that list for my district."

At session's end, the House had cut appropriations bills by $6.2 billion below administration estimates. But $1.6 billion is in the defense budget, and a supplemental request for twice that amount is expected from the administration early next year.

And, as Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., complained, the Senate put some $4 billion back into the House-passed appropriations bills. Every additional proposed reduction was defeated by the Senate, he said, and only amendments adding to the total were approved.

Williams made an all-out effort to cut the public works appropriations bill but met little success.

President Johnson had asked for funds to start nine new public works projects. The House knocked out four while adding 16—including Otto Passman's seawall—for a total of 21. The Senate Appropriations Committee then restored the four and added another 25 for a total of 50.

Williams sought to knock out the 41 extra projects, involving total future commitments of $475 million, but lost 61 to 17. He then tried to cut the $4.7 billion bill by five per cent but lost 54 to 27.

Later in the year, when Congress made one major move to cut spending by passing a measure directing executive branch cuts of some $4.1 billion, Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., tried to include Congress and the courts.

"We are at war with waste and I do not want the legislative branch to operate as draft dodgers in that war," Mundt told the Senate. He lost 44 to 29.

Some months earlier, however, he had voiced concern about the low rate of federal spending in South Dakota.

Whatever the result of congressional economy efforts, Republicans—especially in the House—claimed the chief credit.

"The heart and core of our united Republican effort has been the cutting back of federal expenditures for nonessential purposes," House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said.

But on Sept. 11, Ford joined a majority of the House in voting 225 to 83 to increase by $8 million the authorization for the Missouri River Basin project. So did such Missouri Valley economizers as Hall, Gross, and Reps. John Kyl and William J. Scherle, Iowa Republicans.

Pays Tribute To a Teacher With Cartoon

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Pulitzer Prize-winning cartoonist, Frank A. Miller Jr., paid tribute to his high school American history teacher with a cartoon drawn and presented in her memory Tuesday.

Miller, political cartoonist for the Des Moines Register-Tribune, grew up in the Kansas City area and attended Shawnee Mission North High School across the state line in Kansas.

His history teacher, Miss Anna Marie Edwards, died in September but lived long enough to see Miller win his Pulitzer in 1963.

Miller presented his memorial to the student body for display in the school lobby, and recalled how Miss Edwards used to chide him for drawing in class.

"If she stirred my interest in government and national affairs," Miller said, "she certainly did the same for many other persons, and so this community and this country can't help but be better because of her."

His cartoon shows a shadowy figure of Uncle Sam addressing an empty chair behind a school desk. The caption reads, "Thank You, Miss Edwards."

INDIA GETTING MOTELS

NEW DELHI (AP)—Motels are coming to India.

The Indian Tourism Development Corporation announced it would build a motel on the New Delhi-Bombay national highway by mid-1968 and another, later, on the route to Srinagar in Kashmir. Each motel would have a service station and cafeteria.

Highlights Of Remarks By Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are highlights of quotations from President Johnson's answers during his nationally televised interview Tuesday night:

Vietnam Peace

The Demilitarized Zone must be respected as the 1954 agreements require. The unity of Vietnam as a whole must be a matter for peaceful adjustments and negotiation.

The North Vietnamese forces must get out of Laos and stop infiltrating Laos. That is what the 1962 agreement required, and it must be respected.

The 20 per cent or so of the population now under Viet Cong control must live under a one man-one vote constitutional system if there is to be peace.

The political future of South Vietnam ... must be worked out in South Vietnam by the people of South Vietnam.

We will reciprocate and meet any move that they make, but we are not going to be soft-headed and pudding-headed as to say that we will stop our half of the war and hope and pray that they stop theirs.

Urban Unrest

We have this unrest. We have this uncertainty. We have this desire of people who have been held down all these years to rise up and try to acquire, quickly, what has been denied them so unjustly so long.

We have more violence than we want, and more than we should have; more than we are going to be able to tolerate.

I think our big problem is to get at the causes of these riots. I think that some of the causes are the hopes of the people themselves. They don't have jobs. They want jobs. So we are going to have to provide jobs.

I am going to call in the business of America and say one of two things have to happen: You have to help me go out here and find jobs for these people, or we are going to have to find jobs in the government for them and offer every one of them a job. I think that is one thing that could be done. I think that will have to be done, as expensive as it is.

Today's Youth

I think it is a very small percentage that have given up, who have lost faith, who have deep questions about the future of the country and of themselves.

We have more than 3 million young people serving in uniform. I hear from about 100 of them every day. They don't get the attention that you television people give these exhibitionists. They don't have anyone to make signs for them and parade getting their picture in the papers. They are just there from daylight to dark, fighting for freedom and liberty, and willing to die for it. They are a pretty large number, comparatively speaking.

I doubt there is anything like that many hippies, or I doubt that there are that many disillusioned people.

Domestic Dissent

I am amazed that some of these so-called liberal folks who reserve for themselves the right to speak long, loud and freely, but when the opposition views are expressed, they try to drown it out with cat-calls, eggs or tomatoes

Economy-Taxes

We think the business activity is going to pick up. We think there is going to be increased production. We think it is very essential that we have a tax bill.

1968 Eelection

I am going to do what I think is best for my country, at home and abroad, without regard to what effect it has on my future. If they (Republicans) will do the same thing, we will have a good government, a good country, and then we can let the election take care of itself. And I think we will have a good election.

Romney Says European Tour 'Encouraging'

MOSCOW (AP) — Gov. George Romney said today his tour of five European capitals, including a long talk with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, "has encouraged me to believe in the possibility of finding a political solution" for the Vietnam war.

"A satisfactory solution for Vietnam must be found in not purely military but also political means," Romney said as he left Moscow for Israel.

"Broadly speaking, on my European trip I found uncertainty and concern about our foreign policy," said Romney, who has visited Warsaw, Paris, Bonn and London, as well as Moscow.

"In none of my talks," Romney said, "has there been any criticism on my part of American policy in Vietnam.

"I have stressed in Europe that the 1968 elections will not result in the lessening of our determination to find a Vietnam solution satisfactory to both sides."

Christmas Arrives At Disneyland

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Mickey Mouse whammed a 10-foot-high bass drum as Cinderella rode in an enormous pumpkin coach. In a special, one-night-only prelude, Gregory Peck read the scripture—"Unto you is born a savior"—and 800 choristers sang of joy to the world.

Thus Christmas arrived last Saturday night at Disneyland in a light rain defied by participants and hundreds of spectators. And the late, shrewd showman-founder, Walt Disney, would have been delighted at this third annual edition of his $500,000 creation, "Fantasy on Parade."

The twice-a-day, Christmas-season pageant, starring 40 years of dancing Disney characters from little pigs to Mary Poppins, is only a segment of kaleidoscopic special attractions that keep customers coming back all year.

"Disneyland is a show, and you can't run the same show year in and year out," says marketing director Jack Lindquist, one of the bright young lieutenants who carry on the Disney tradition.

During Easter vacation there are special stage shows and parades. June brings 11 p.m.-to-5 a.m. graduation parties—seven nights of them this year with a total attendance of 75,000 youngsters bussed directly from high school auditoriums, some with diplomas still in hand.

Big companies and unions book the whole park for private parties on Friday and Saturday nights from September through May. The cost—from a minimum $22,500 for 6,000 people to $51,000 for $6,000—usually is shared by company and employes. For the first time, all weekend nights this season already are taken.

New Year's Eve at liquorless Disneyland has been sold out in advance the past three years. The crowds, at $9 per head, are 60 per cent under 21 and include family groups. Inducements this time: "Hats, noisemakers, eight great bands, unlimited use of all attractions, surprise midnight spectacular."

Disney staffers polled departing customers last month, asking: "Have you ever visited Disneyland before?" Nearly 60 per cent said yes. Among Southern Californians the percentage was 78.6.

Attendance for the park's fiscal year ended Sept. 30 was 7.9 million, up from the previous year's record 6.7 million. Estimated gross income this year: $51 million; last year's record, $41 million.

IN THE NEWS

CINCINNATI (AP) — Santa Claus inadvertently kept police from discovering the identity of two bank robbers here Tuesday.

Santa Claus happened to be standing in front of cameras that take pictures of any persons making a transaction in the bank and the robbers did not get their pictures taken.

The two bandits remained at large today with $4,200 they took from a branch of the Provident Bank in the Walnut Hills section of the city.

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian government's divorce reform legislation won final approval in the House of Commons Tuesday night. It now goes to the Senate.

The bill would broaden grounds for divorce to include desertion, bigamy, physical and mental cruelty, sodomy, bestiality, rape, homosexuality and marriage breakdown as well as the current ground of adultery.

Grim Estimate On Accidents Over Holiday

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council estimated today between 625 and 725 persons may die in Christmas holiday weekend traffic, half of the number in crashes in which liquor will be a factor.

The period covered by the estimate will extend from 6 p.m. local time Friday until midnight Monday, Christmas day.

"Somewhere in the neighborhood of 375 Americans are likely to die from traffic accidents related in some way to alcohol," William G. Johnson, council general manager, said in a statement.

"Probing a variety of fatal crashes, researchers in several states agree generally that the rate of alcohol involvement reaches—or surpasses—50 per cent," Johnson said.

The council also estimated 29,000 to 34,000 persons will suffer disabling injuries from Christmas holiday crashes. Statisticians said travel would probably total about 7.9 billion vehicle miles compared with about 7.6 billion during a nonholiday period of equal length.

The last three Christmases provided three-day weekends. In 1966 there were 600 traffic fatalities, in 1965 a record 720 and in 1964 there were 596. During a normal nonholiday period of identical length the count would be about 500.

Sen. McGovern Hits Wheeler On a Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern describes as "irresponsible and irrelevant" what he calls a bid by the top U.S. military leader to charge antiwar dissenters with fueling North Vietnam's victory hopes.

McGovern, a South Dakota Democrat and war policy critic, said Tuesday that Gen. Earle G. Wheeler is "blaming Hanoi's refusal to surrender on American critics of U.S. Vietnam policy."

He referred to a Detroit speech Sunday in which Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Americans have a right to dissent "but they also have a responsibility to recognize and acknowledge what their dissent means." Wheeler said Hanoi is counting on dissent to change U.S. policy.

"The Pentagon and State Department are running out of excuses," said McGovern, "so now they are blaming the failure of their policy on those who warned all along that it wouldn't work.

"Some of us believe that this war is not in the national interest and that our sons are being made the victims of a misguided diplomacy and military strategy," said McGovern, adding:

"As responsible Americans we cannot swallow our honestly held convictions merely because Gen. Wheeler is guessing that our views might be misread in Hanoi."

President Johnson's Vietnam policy won backing meanwhile from 14 eminent scholars of Asian affairs, who said that "to accept a Communist victory in Vietnam would serve as a major encouragement to those forces in the world opposing peaceful coexistence, to those elements committed to the thesis that violence is the best means of effecting change."

The report was the result of a three-day conference of American scholars of Asia who met in Tuxedo, N.Y., under auspices of the new Freedom House Public Affairs Institute.

President Dominates TV Night

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The President of the United States was television's brightest star Tuesday night. He sat comfortably in a rocking chair and discussed subjects of national interest that ranged from hopes of peace in Vietnam to the state of the economy.

The program, taped the day before in the White House, was labeled "A Conversation with the President," but was actually an hour-long interview—edited somewhat for security purposes, the networks announced—by representatives of the three major networks which carried it simultaneously.

The President spoke without notes except once, when he read from a previous statement he had made about Vietnam. There was, therefore, an informality and give-and-take that gave the program an intimacy and interest that is likely to be missing in a formal platform address read from notes or a prompter.

At one point, discussing disturbances and violence at home, the President turned a question back to one of the newsmen. ABC's Frank Reynolds asked the President what should be done to prevent trouble next summer. The President replied by asking Reynolds what he thought should be done. The reporter tried to avoid answering but Johnson, looking amused, pressed him. When Reynolds finally said he would speed up programs now in progress, Johnson said that was what was being done and added, with mock formality, that the reporter's suggestion was accepted. It was, however, just about the only light note in a serious hour.

Red Skelton's Christmas show on CBS Tuesday night starred, as usual, Red as Freddie and Freeloader, and it was one of those sticky, sentimental stories with comedy icing that only Skelton could get away with. This year Freddie, instead of meeting up with Greer Garson as he has on previous Christmases recently, finds a sad little girl looking for a father.

Well, the poor thing had a sick mother with no money, but Freddie fixed everything up, including marrying mommy off to the cop on the beat. Maybe next year Red will go back to Greer Garson.

764 POUNDS OF TURTLE

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — A 764-pound turtle, possibly a record for local waters, was brought in in November by a fishing boat. The turtle was identified as a Pacific leatherback, so named because the exterior of the shell has a leathery rather than bony texture.

The species has been found as large as 1,000 pounds in waters further south.

The turtle in question was bought by the Sumida Restaurant, where it will appear on the menu as cutlets and soup.

Thanks Lord After Ordeal

APEX, N.C. (AP) — John Lipscomb emerged unhurt from a well where he had been buried for six hours Tuesday. "Thank You, Lord Jesus. I was praying all the time," he said.

A smile wrinkled the mud-caked face of the 62-year-old laborer as he was hauled from the 20-foot well which had caved in while Lipscomb was at the bottom cleaning it.

Lipscomb was led about a dozen steps to a stretcher where he removed his jacket and lay down, his workman's helmet toppling from his head.

His wife grabbed the hat and clutching it to her breast said: "They say this old hat saved my man's life."

Rescue workers had said that the helmet protected Lipscomb from injury and allowed him to keep rock and clay away from his face so he could breathe.

Lipscomb was working in the well alone when the walls caved in, burying him under about five feet of bricks and mud.

Ben McCoy, one of two men working on the surface, said he heard a rumble when the sides caved in. He looked down and "Lipscomb was gone. I couldn't see anything but dirt."

The workers summoned assistance. The Wake County sheriff's office, the Apex fire department and the Raleigh rescue squad and volunteers joined in the rescue.

Soon they succeeded in worming a hose through the debris to Lipscomb and started pumping oxygen to the trapped man. After about four hours the workers uncovered Lipscomb's head.

Keep It in Perspective

One of the latest public opinion surveys reports that interst in the space program has dropped to its lowest level in four years.

Nobody should be surprised by this, or read more into it than it warrants.

Even if space travel is mankind's greatest adventure, it is asking too much to expect the individuals who make up mankind to remain constantly excited and enthused about something they can take no personal part in.

Nor should too much weight be given the dip or rise in the latest poll regarding the President's popularity, or the shifting rankings of the national problems that are uppermost in people's minds.

Opinion polls should not be discounted, of course. They can be useful guides—straws in the wind, as the politicians say—especially if taken at regular intervals and compared.

But there is danger in these instant analyses of public thinking, unless they are kept in proper perspective. The safest conclusion that can be drawn from any one of them is that it merely suggests how the assumed average person feels about a particular issue at a particular time.

A survey of husbands and wives at any given moment would find many of them expressing doubts about the wisdom of the greatest adventure most people ever embark on—their choice of spouse.

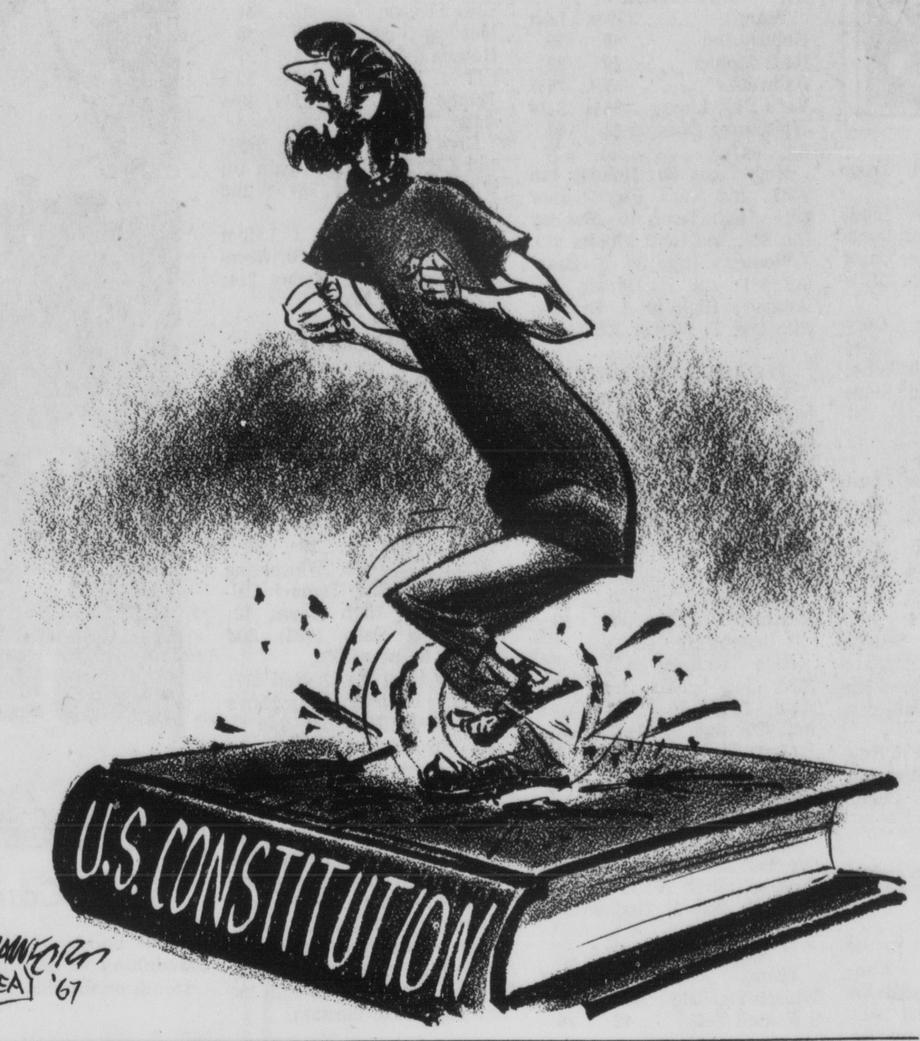
If the excitement of newly wedded bliss can fade, if fickleness can creep in where once was absolute conviction, how much more difficult is it to maintain enthusiasm for great and distant things over which one has no immediate control—presidents, poverty wars, pollution and the like?

It would be as foolish for governments to try to make national goals match every changing hue of the public mood, or for presidents to change their policies because they failed to win a vote of confidence among a "representative sampling" of the public, as it would be to permit divorce by whim.

With space programs and presidents, just as with marriages, we are pretty much stuck with what we have committed ourselves to. Great changes should not be undertaken lightly or too frequently.

The Founding Fathers knew what they were doing when they decided that four years was long enough and short enough a period to entrust any administration with the responsibility of running the nation—and that every four years was often enough to entrust the citizens with the power to pass the ultimate verdict on the way the job was being done.

"I Stand on My Constitutional Rights!"



Our Christmas Tree

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Two of the nation's most important Christmas trees are here. One, which is the nation's tree, stands in the Elipse behind the White House and President Johnson lighted it December 15. Groups of carols were sung, military bands played, and 50 smaller trees along the esplanade, representing each state, made a procession of lights for the opening ceremony as the President wished the people of this nation "A Merry Christmas."

The other tree is in the White House. It too belongs to the nation. The 16 ft. 6 in. blue spruce tree is in the Blue Room. Ohio won the right to furnish it this year in a competition sponsored by the National Christmas Tree Growers Association.

One wonders how a tree could be so completely adorned and yet be an artistic achievement even though most of the branches are covered. The theme is Early America. The Federal Empire angel is on the top. Real gingerbread cookies in the form of Santa Claus, snowmen, camels, teddy bears, dolls and milk maids make one want to linger to see the variety. There is even an elephant as well as a donkey. To carry out the theme, strings of popcorn and cranberries circle the tree from top to bottom. Garlands of bright felt flowers suggest our Mexican neighbors; wooden Hawaiian roses add a modern touch. Shiny silver balls, silver stars and small round mirrors sparkle like glistening lights. Impish little elves sit around the bottom of the tree.

Words from the writings of the actress Helen Hayes came to mind as we look upon the beauty and majesty of the tree in the White House and remember all the Christmas trees in our own lives:

"How lovely are the symbols of the Christmas season — the holly, the wreath, glowing candles, a sprig of mistletoe. . . and most important of all, the traditional Christmas tree..

"We search for just the right tree to play its part in our festivities — and we costume it in a thousand different roles for this most joyful of holidays. It can be bright and sentimental, simple and dramatic, tall or tiny — but it's ours! And when we place the star atop our tree, then we know that Christmas has come again to our home. And the tree stands as a symbol of Christmas in our hearts."

Can They Concoct Strategy?

Governors Peeking at Rockefeller

PALM BEACH, Fla. (NEA)

There is no question of it: New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and others have now given a clear signal that he is available for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination.

Yet the crushing irony is that the GOP governors who gathered here in another of their celebrations of their own ineffectuality do not have the faintest glimmer of a plan to take account of this altered circumstance.

Convinced by polls, by voter word-of-mouth and by other evidence that Rockefeller is their surest winner in 1968, those many governors who want him can think of no strategy but to stand by helplessly and hope that events—not they—will dictate his nomination at Miami Beach next August.

Rockefeller himself uttered words here which, for the first time, indicated he might accept a convention draft if it came. But that was not the only signal heard from his camp.

Also for the first time, men in that group stopped stressing the governor's disinclination to run and suggested privately that he could and should be nominated.

Asked whether a sufficient number of middle-range Republican conservatives could be won over to bring about that result, one source in the governors' group said confidently: "They're available!"

Evidence to support that contention was not lacking at Palm Beach and elsewhere. Conservative Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana, whose first choice is the current front-runner, Richard Nixon, said that Rockefeller—not Gov. Ronald Reagan of California—looks best to him if Nixon should fail in the primaries.

Other conservative western, midwestern and even southern leaders indicated either here or in other settings that Rockefeller would at least be palatable to them if, by mid-1968, he seemed the party's best chance of beating LBJ.

In the South, sounds to this effect have been heard unmistakably in Tennessee and South Carolina. They do not appear to be isolated examples.

Nevertheless, as they confronted these signs of Rockefeller's more certain availability and his widening acceptability in the party, moderate governors could not get beyond trying to pin the label "strategy" on the course of hopeful inaction which they have charted for themselves in the next six months.

On paper, the thing has a kind of delicate perfection:

Should Nixon beat Michigan's Gov. George Romney and Reagan in the 1968 primaries, the former vice president will find a heavy tide of convention delegates running his way. But national opinion polls in June or July might show him either losing to President Johnson or leading him by unsafe margins—and this would open the way to a convention draft of Rockefeller, if by them he is shown beating LBJ resoundingly.

Should Nixon be beaten by Romney in New Hampshire or Wisconsin or both, the Michigan governor probably could not greatly advance his own candidacy, which today so many governors believe is damaged irretrievably. But he might prove an effective agent of the moderates' cause.

A Nixon defeat would presumably elevate Reagan as the conservatives' alternate choice. But his star is a little dimmer now, and moderates figure his still-visible Barry Goldwater coloration would frighten voters and delegates, reflect itself in adverse polls and an unsettled convention, and—even more easily—clear the road to a Rockefeller draft.

Obviously, these conceptions depend upon a neat interweaving of events. Any hitch can send the theories crashing. And they presume moderate governors having the nerve to move away from Nixon as a possibly strong nomination leader, when time after time—in much easier circumstances—they have failed to exhibit any collective force at all in Republican councils.

The new Rockefeller signals are strong. But the response at Palm Beach was a weak call for waiting and hoping, and a plaintive query: "What else can we do?"

Favorite Sons: Key Role in '68

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Confusion seems to be building over the role the many prospective Republican "favorite sons" may try to play—or be forced into—in the 1968 presidential nomination fight.

Included in the likely lineup, of course, are such men as Governors Nelson Rockefeller of New York, James Rhodes of Ohio, Raymond Shafer of Pennsylvania, John Volpe of Massachusetts, Claude Kirk of Florida, Ronald Reagan of California, and Senators Charles Percy of Illinois, John Tower of Texas and Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Some party professional sources, mostly moderate types, are saying that the 1968 situation will stay fluid enough to permit the nomination of Rockefeller by the GOP convention at Miami Beach if some of the listed favorite sons—plus other lesser ones—can be held in a sort of loose confederation until then.

On the other hand, it has been tossed out that a Richard Nixon, on a possible winning course, might try to brush some of the big-state favorite sons down like ten-pins and collect them and their delegates in an irresistible push to the nomination.

First off, it can be stated categorically that Richard Nixon does not intend to enter a single big-state presidential primary where a major favorite son is in prospect.

Nixon's strategy has never contemplated this, and sources in New York indicate there has been no change. Indeed, in three of the states mentioned, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Illinois, convention delegates are not even bound to follow the primary results. Nixon could win and get nothing.

The indications that he might try to bulldoze the key favorite sons came as a rather accidental happening. Nixon agents moved swiftly to inform them that these signs were not the true ones.

The impression left by the first reports may not, however, prove altogether helpful. Some of the favorite sons in question, including Rhodes, Shafer and Volpe, are already in a skeptical frame of mind with respect to Nixon.

At least a few party figures believe that these and other GOP leaders will, in fact, keep their large delegations uncommitted until nearly convention eve, and that they will supply the crucial nucleus and much of the delegate mass needed to put over Rockefeller as 1968 nominee.

History is not exactly on the side of these forecasters. Favorite sons tend to melt away in the heat of preconvention pressures which build for the front-runner who may be winning primaries and piling up delegates in a host of state conventions. If either Nixon or Reagan should get into that strong lead position by early next summer, it will not be easy for the favorite sons to stay in a resisting coalition.

One of their number, Volpe, said at the recent Governors Conference in Palm Beach that at least half the 26 GOP governors might wind up endorsing Nixon in early June if by then he had a commanding lead. Other governors gave similar indications.

Yet it is abundantly clear that many of these governors and other likely favorite sons might like to keep their huge blocks of delegates (just about enough to stop anybody from nomination) off the candidate market until the balloting begins.

Their problem may be how to stay "fluid," in the face of possible front-runner heat, without some positive encouragement from the presently reluctant Rockefeller and leaders working unmistakeably in his behalf.

Some party men say Rockefeller's only hope is to do nothing and have nothing done for him until the last minute. But politics is motion. Somebody else may be nominated while some favorite sons and others are engaged in strategic inaction.

Boris Raymond of New York did not have the time to play in many national tournaments, but in the metropolitan area he was known as one of our very best players. The Eastern Open Pairs is just another Regional today but it is the oldest contract tournament, and the list of winners includes most of the great old-timers as well as many of the younger generation.

When Oswald Jacoby won it for the fourth time in 1954, it was thought that this record would stand up, but Boris, who had not played in it till then, tied that record when he won it four times, including 1966 and 1967. His untimely death last month undoubtedly stopped him from winning it again, since Boris seemed to be almost unbeatable in this event.

Boris had a distinct bidding style that wouldn't have been at all popular in the West because he liked to pass pretty big hands and back in later, but no one could find any fault with his technique of dummy play and defense.

Boris held the East cards in today's hand. He had no problems in the bidding and his play of the diamond seven at trick one was automatic.

South had no problems in the early play. He went right up with dummy's ace of diamonds, drew trumps with three leads and ran off the heart suit in order to discard two diamonds and a club from his own hand.

Boris did not have any discarding problem, but he did a little counting while South was running the heart suit. South had five heart tricks, four spades of his own, plus the fourth spade in dummy to ruff a club with. The ace of diamonds gave him an 11th trick. South needed a club to make his contract, so, when eventually South led the jack of clubs from dummy, Boris played a low club.

South finally had a problem and guessed wrong. He played low. West made his queen and the contract was beaten.

Popular Misconceptions Regarding Intoxication

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

According to the old song, "'Tis the season to be jolly." This being so, or at least widely believed, the question arises: Are you the type who needs to take several drinks to be jolly? If so, after these drinks, do you always say, "Of coursh I'm shober enough to drive?" If this is the case, the season may not be as jolly as you had anticipated.

Because so many traffic accidents are the result of drinking, this seems to be a good time to review some popular misconceptions about alcohol. For example, the belief that you will get more intoxicated if you mix your drinks (gin after whisky or vice versa) is completely false. It is the amount of alcohol you consume in a unit of time that causes intoxication, regardless of the type of drink.

If you think you can safely drive when two hours have elapsed since you had two highballs, you should revise your thinking. You might make it home without an accident, but a wait of three hours is safer.

The old notion that a little alcohol acts as a stimulant and makes you more alert is false. Alcohol depresses your nervous system. Some persons, aware of this danger, drive more carefully than they would otherwise but, should an emergency arise, their reflexes would be a little slower than normal.

Do you take a shot of liquor to warm you up when you have to out on a cold night? Don't do it. The alcohol will warm your skin by dilating the surface capillaries but the total effect will be to cause your body to lose heat more rapidly.

Do you always accompany your alcohol consumption with eating onions or garlic or chewing cloves to fool the police? If so, you lose that round too. The modern chemical test for alcohol in the expired air is specific for alcohol. And don't forget that your ability for self-criticism is lost before there are any obvious signs of intoxication.

Q — I have had several polyps removed from my lower bowel. Now they have found one in my colon. Do they ever disappear spontaneously? Is it necessary to have them removed?

A — Rectal polyps will not disappear by themselves. Most polyps of the colon and rectum are benign and, as such, need not be removed unless they are a source of bleeding. If, however, there is any indication that they are malignant they should be removed without delay.

Tax Credit Policy Comes Under Fire

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Which federal department aids the elderly, helps the lumberman and promotes livestock production —all at the same time?

It's the Treasury Department and it does these and other jobs through tax relief and tax incentives. Officials don't particularly relish the task and would like to give it up to experts in these fields.

They relish less the long list of bills awaiting Congress' return next year which would provide a variety of tax credits ranging from underground transmission lines to antipollution devices and higher education.

And they have a strong ally in Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, who contends a tax incentive is nothing more than back-door spending and a failure to face up to a direct-spending program.

Mills said approval of any of the tax credit measures now before his committee would only whet appetites for a legion of other possible credits.

His opposition, together with that of the Treasury Department, will probably mean the death of tax-credit bills standing on their own. They could be attached as riders to other legislation, however.

Money saved through a tax credit, Mills said, must be made up by the rest of the nation's taxpayers and increases the deficit just as much as direct spending because it lowers the Treasury's tax revenues.

The Treasury has no over-all estimate of the tax loss from credits and other incentives but the special exemption for sick pay paid to workers costs $100 million yearly alone. Other forms of tax relief run into the billions.

President Johnson could ask for an overhaul of some tax incentives when he submits his promised tax-revision bill to Congress next year.

Stanley S. Surrey, a former Harvard University professor and now assistant Treasury secretary for tax policy, has placed his department on record against tax incentives to solve the nation's social ills.

He and other Treasury officials, like Mills, prefer the direct approach.

"The immediate leap to the tax solution serves only to stultify thinking about these social problems," Surrey has said.

And once the leap is made there's no chance to explore details of a program each year as Congress would do if direct federal spending were involved.

Surrey also contends tax relief closes the door to the study of alternative solutions to the many problems facing the nation.

"Our progress in space exploration is not built on tax incentives, but on direct relations between government and business that bring forth the required participation by private enterprise," he said.

"Our capsules are not propelled into space by the Internal Revenue Code," added Surrey.

Another Treasury official, Melvin I. White, deputy assistant for tax policy, said if the nation continues down the tax-incentive road the Treasury will soon be making crucial decisions in all economic matters.

"I can assure you that the prospect of such an empire is not really an appealing one to the Treasury Department," he added.

A tax system, Surrey said, is presumably designed to raise money but at present is more like a spending system couched in tax language.

James Marlow is on vacation.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

So successful was Pettis County's test blackout that had an enemy plane been overhead there would have been difficulty finding a target. The response on the part of the community was splendid. Bright moonlight furnished the only light. Cars were halted, and so far as life and activity, there was none to be seen by the average citizen sitting at home and looking from darkened windows.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Officers of the Pettis County Medical Society for 1928 were elected at a meeting of the society at the Katy hospital as follows: President, Dr. A. L. Walter; Vice-President, Dr. J. E. Mitchell; Secreatary, Dr. F. B. Long; Treasurer, Dr. A. E. Monroe. Dr. J. G. Love was elected to the censor committee.

NINETY YEARS AGO

Sedalia owes today $258,000, a part of which is now due, and all of it in the near future. Indebtedness bears 10 per cent interest, $10,000 of which is now overdue, while the city has absolutely no means at its command to pay this accrued interest, nor can it have under the restrictions of its own charter and the state constitution. Something therefore had to be done. O. A. Crandall with consent of Council made a trip to the East, contacted bondholders and persuaded them to compromise the interest charge from 10 to 5 per cent.

The Norfolk (Va.) Naval Shipyard is the oldest in the United States. It was founded in 1767, before creation of the U.S. Navy Department.

Old Documents His to Keep

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City collector, Kenneth D. Sender, won a six-year suit Tuesday to establish his ownership of 313 historical documents dated between 1697 and 1846.

The papers, consisting of private communications and government proclamations largely written in Spanish, relate to New Mexico when it was governed by Spain, then by Mexico.

A U.S. District Court jury rejected a federal government claim of ownership and designated Sender the rightful owner. The documents also had been sought by the state of New Mexico.

The government contended the papers were public documents. Archivists consider them priceless. Sender testified he bought them in 1960 for $3,300.

They have been kept at the Truman Library in nearby Independence, Mo., during litigation.

Couple Victims In Bridge Fall

KANSAS CITY (AP)— Among those drowned when the bridge at Point Pleasant, W. Va., collapsed into the Ohio River Friday were a couple known in Kansas City labor circles.

The body of Paul Wedge, 53, an assistant to the president of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, was recovered Saturday, and that of his wife Monday. Their car was on the bridge when it went down.

Wedge made his home in Point Pleasant, but as an international representative for the boilermakers maintained a residence in Kansas City, Kan. He drove back to West Virginia from Kansas City last Wednesday.

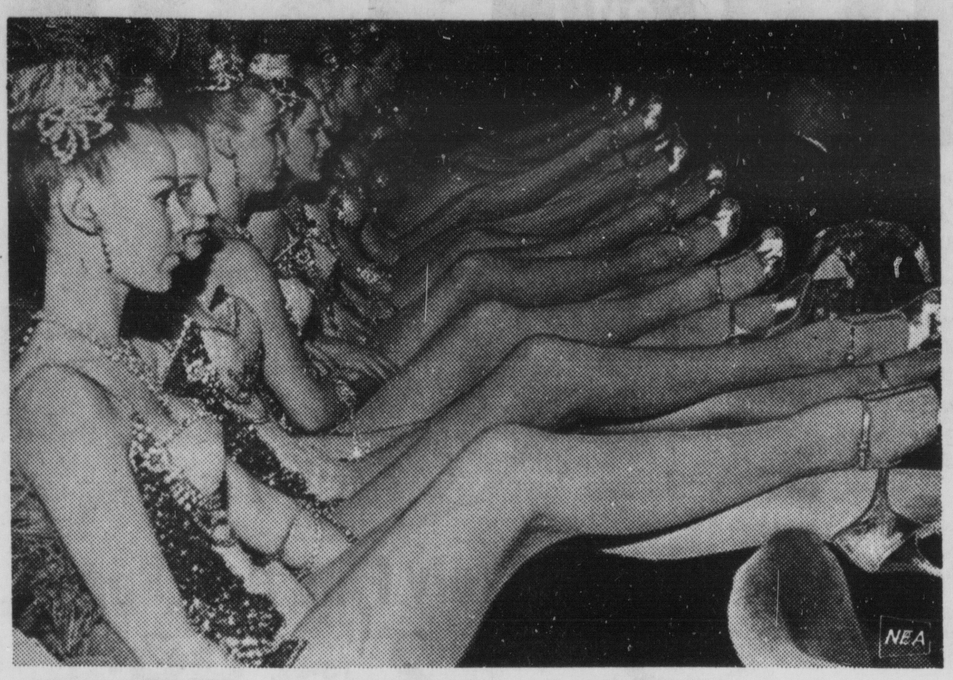
THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

Sedalia, Mo., Wednesday, December 20, 1967 — Section C



OFF THEIR FEET, momentarily, are chorus girls taking a break in rehearsals at London Palladium.

Society AND Clubs

Longwood Homemakers Extension Club held its annual Christmas dinner and party Dec. 5 at the Flat Creek Inn, with 17 members present and special guests, Mrs. Jason Chamberlin, Mrs. Russell Evans, and Mrs. James Ream.

Mrs. John Greer was in charge of the Christmas program and led the group in the singing of Christmas carols. Each member donated to the Butterfield Boys Ranch with homemade cookies and canned fruit.

After a gift exchange and the revealing of 1967 secret pals, names were drawn for the new year's secret pals.

The meeting was closed with everyone singing "Joy to the World."

The Houstonia Methodist Church MW Circle held its annual Christmas dinner and party Tuesday night with a covered dish dinner, followed by a brief Christmas program with Mrs. J. D. Gregory in charge.

Mrs. Earl Gregory accompanied group singing, and Christmas readings were given by Mrs. Jack Nagel and Mrs. George Scott. The secret pal gifts were then exchanged and names were drawn for the coming year.

Those attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nagel, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Lowrey, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Broaddus Wiley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gregory, and sons Jeffery and Keven, Mrs. C. F. Wicker, Mrs. Joe Belsha, Mrs. Dave Shields, Mrs. Oscar Rothrock, Mrs. Lon Stone, Mrs. George Scott, Miss Hattie Skillman, and Miss Mary E. Tevebaugh.

Knob Noster BPW Club met Monday night, Dec. 4, in the Fellowship Hall of the Methodist Church with state BPW president, Marjorie Garansson, Sedalia, as the guest speaker. Mrs. John Carner, club president, introduced Mrs. Garansson, who spoke on the club's activities during the past three years since it has been organized. Other guests included the II—South District Director, Erline Whittsitt, Harrisonville, and State Legislative Chairman, Clara Surber, Harrisonville. Members from the Harrisonville, Higginsville, Warrensburg, and Sedalia BPW clubs were among the 57 ladies attending the dinner.

The program consisted of a visit from Mrs. Santa (Mrs. Merle A. Matthews, program director) and was patterned after old fashion Christmas programs with members selected at random to present readings, and cards spelling out Merry Christmas. Bob Rodgers and Ted Macon, Whiteman Air Force Base, sang duets, "Keep Christ in Christmas," and "O Holy Night," with each man singing a solo and Sammy Matthews playing two Christmas numbers on his tuba. Mrs. Matthews was accompanist for the musical numbers.

A gift exchange was held following the program, and table decorations carried out the yuletide theme. Mrs. Earle Harris and Mrs. Earl Wampler were door prize winners.

Hostesses for the evening, Mrs. Carner and Mrs. Mary Jo McGuire, honored the state president, district director, and legislative chairman at a tea following the other activities with vice president, Mrs. George Taraba, and Mrs. McGuire, presiding at the tea table.

Garden Club No. 4 met at the festively decorated Pacific Room of the Pacific Cafe for its meeting and Christmas party. A 1 o'clock luncheon was served to 22 members and one guest, Mrs. Pauline Walker, Jefferson City, a former member, with the invocation given by Mrs. Robert Phelan.

Tables were covered with white linen cloths spaced with red place mats, centered with various yuletide decorations. Favors of holly filled small red boots were placed at each plate. The gift exchange table, covered with white net embroidered with sequins on red and green felt bells over a white felt cloth, centered a white net Christmas tree made by Mrs. Floyd Knerl.

Mrs. Knerl, vice president, presided, and Mrs. J. L. Hiltenburg, program chairman, presented Mrs. Rose Hausam, who gave the topic, "The True Meaning of Christmas," with readings "The Road to Bethlehem," and "Changes Are Everywhere," by Peter Marshall. The meeting was closed with a Christmas thought and carols were sung by the members and gifts exchanged.

Under the exhibit, "Special Christmas Wrappings," Mrs. Ralph McCowan received first and Mrs. Knerl second. "Manger Scene and Evergreens," award went to Mrs. Knerl.

Mrs. Knerl presented the gavel to Mrs. Roy Kirchhoffer, president-elect 1968-69.

The January meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Walter Banning, Rt. 2, with Mrs. James Hosford and Mrs. George Dabner assisting.

Knob Noster Modern Homemakers Extension Club met with Mrs. John Jones Dec. 6 for a regular meeting and a contributive luncheon. All members were present for the luncheon with Mrs. Eldon Jones and Mrs. Elon Keller, LaMonte, as guests.

The Jones home and dining table were decorated in gay festive design, and following the luncheon a short business meeting was held with Mrs. N. W. Dirck, president, presiding.

Roll call was answered with Christmas scriptures and articles pertaining to Christmas. The program, a short Christmas skit, "For This Little Time," was presented by Mrs. George Strickland, Mrs. Roger Becker, and Mrs. Elroy Schroeder.

The club is sending its Christmas gifts to the Butterfield Boys Ranch, Marshall.

Other officers were Mrs. Don Broaddus, vice president, Mrs. Jim Koester, secretary, Mrs. Paul Bremmer, treasurer, Mrs. Bennie Bell, chaplain, and Mrs. Johnny Bribiesca, reporter. Mrs. Don Broaddus led games and a large Christmas table arrangement was presented to Mrs. Russell Wicker; another arrangement was presented to Mrs. John Coffey.

Mrs. Paul Bremmer poured punch at a table covered with white netting and a centerpiece of traditional Christmas colors. Smaller tables were covered in white and Christmas hues. Gifts for the exchange were placed on a large green Christmas tree.

Members contributed fresh fruit for Buena Vista and canned goods for Christmas baskets.

Striped College 4-H Club met Dec. 6 at the Striped College with 57 persons attending the local recognition night.

Pledges to the flags were given by Julie Green and Nancy Iuchs, the 4-H citizenship pledge by Debbie Wilson, and delegates were recognized to attend the state 4-H club week at Columbia. Delegates were: Dee Ann Kasak, citizen short course to Jefferson City; Dee Ann Kasak, Jeri Lou Iuchs, Terry Wilson, to Washington, D. C.; Kathy Rages. Key awards went to Dee Ann Kasak, Kathy Rages; county medals to Jeri Lou Iuchs, Terry Wilson, Terri Ann Alcorn, Kathy Rages and Bruce Shirkey. The cultural program was presented by Mrs. Walt Schroeder, entitled "Methods of Education." Mrs. Schroeder showed films on Horace Mann, the educator, and a film on education in the Soviet Union as compared to education in the United States.

Gaily decorated packages placed around a white net Christmas tree adorned with cherry-red satin balls, and small candles entwined with berries and holly, added to the festive atmospher while the hostess served dessert and coffee to her guests during the social hour.

Reliable Service for 75 Years

OLD AND NEW

HONOLULU (AP)—The Honolulu City Council has decided that supermarkets are necessary, but agreed to let a small country store live at least a few more years as a "service to the community."

The councilmen recently approved commercial zoning for a 3.25-acre shopping center near the store at Laie, a community 34 miles north of Honolulu.

The developers of the shopping center, Zion Securities, which is owned by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, also owns the land on which the old plantation store sits. The group recently announced plans to level the store site to make way for residential development.

But the announcement quickly brought protests from Samoans living in the area. They said Charles K. Goo, who has been running the store there for the past 12 years, gives them credit and lends them money when they need it.

As one Samoan told the council, " A giant supermarket will not do that."

So the councilmen agreed to send Zion Securities a letter asking it to preserve the store "as a service to the community" and perhaps restore the building as a tourist attraction.

SWORN IN as 1968 president of the National Association of Manufacturers was Daniel Parker, chairman of the board of Parker Pen Co.

The topic for discussion was given by Mrs. MacMullin, "To Grade or Not to Grade." Mrs. MacMullin explained different philosophies and told how a teacher's philosphy affects the way a teacher will grade; therefore, no two teachers grading methods are similar and parents should accept this and cooperate with their child's teacher. A multiple choice questionnaire was filled out and discussion followed concerning why grades are given, the extent that grades reflect the effort of the slow and fast student, how parents' reaction effects future grading, and if parent-teacher conferences could take the place of grade cards.

Refreshments were served following the meeting by the hostess and a co-hostess, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Robert Moon.

Stamps Help You Stamp Out Those Christmas Problems

By AILEEN SNODDY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — At Christmastime the old saw that everyone is strange but thee and me and sometimes I think thee, etc. . . . takes a tinsel-y twist.

An otherwise shrewd businessman, for example, hates trading stamps. He reveals that he delights in slapping such stamps moistened by droplets from a leaky milk container upon a supermarket window. Where do his kicks come from this? Well, his bag is watching some ardent stamp collector rush immediately to scrape the stamps from the store window.

He certainly wins a spot in the Scrooge poll for Christmas '67.

The New Yorker's disdain of redemption possibilities puts him in the minority. According to the Trading Stamp Institute of America, an estimated 100 million books of stamps issued by some 200 firms will be redeemed for Christmas gifts.

This represents at retail more than $1 billion, a few chuckles and some heartwarming gestures toward the elderly and families of limited means that suggest the meaning of Christmas is not completely submerged in commercialism.

Some Sperry and Hutchinson Co. store managers come up with a wealth of stories.

For example, Mrs. Eileen Osuna, manager of a Modesto, Calif., branch, tells of a scene in her store last December. It brought 60 shoppers and employes up short.

The center of attention was a two-year-old riding a tricycle. It seems a housewife had brought him to the store to see if he could handle a tricycle. If he could, she planned to get him one for Christmas.

Why all the interest? The two-year-old was a monkey. Incidentally, he got his tricycle, according to Mrs. Osuna.

Another woman in Peoria, Ill., got even with her husband who gifted her with a wheelbarrow one Christmas. She redeemed her stamps for a steam iron—for him.

And only would a Palm Beach, Fla., gentleman think of redeeming his stamps for a heating pad. He told Eleanor Cady, the manager, "It's for my dog. We're going north for the holidays and it may be cold in those hotel rooms up there."

Children are cute but often call for some diplomatic guidance from the clerks. Alice Latimer of S&H in Richmond, Va., intervened when a pal persuaded one small chap that, since he was getting a hammer for his dad, he ought to get one for his mother, too. "That way," the young lad reasoned, "the gifts will be the same." Mom got a necklace.

The holly wreath — originality goes to the woman who traded for a jam and jelly set. "I'm giving myself a gift," she said. "It's for my dentures."

Throughout the country, friends, clubs or church groups report pooling their stamps to help families whose homes burn. In their temporary quarters, the shocked parents and children find gifts of pots and pans, towels, sheets and bedspreads plus clothing, shoes and other personal items.

In Fargo, N.D., one stamp saver overheard several elderly citizens in a rest home lament the loss of their rocking chairs. She picked two from the catalogue and they were by the rest home tree Christmas morning.

Curiously, most men grumble about the wear-and-tear, both physical and financial, the season spawns. Yet stamp redemption store managers across the country claim men seem to be more romantic in their selections than women but not without trepidation.

One husband turned in 15 books of stamps for a candelabra and silverware. "These are for my wife," he told a clerk. "I sure hope she doesn't find out her stamps are missing."

Glen Riekhef presented the award with Richard Parkhurst giving the Eagle Scout challenge. The ceremony closed with the benediction by Dr. Garner Odell.

A reception followed with the table decorated with a bouquet of red carnations and red candles on a white cloth trimmed in blue eagles. The centerpiece was a large cake decorated in red, white, and blue, centered by an eagle. Coffee and punch were served by Mrs. T. L. Heinze and Mrs. I. H. Lehmer. Other assistants were Mrs. Harold Johnsten and Miss Marge Recter.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

Plaster Is No Problem

By MR. FIX

Houses settle, furniture is shoved against walls, children bang against the wall with their toys. Whatever the reason, a lived-in house will soon reveal minor cracks in plaster walls and even larger ones.

Repairing plaster walls is not difficult. The tools you will need are few and inexpensive.

For minor patching, a putty knife will do along with a pie tin in which to mix the plaster. For larger holes, you will need a plasterer's steel trowel. There is a crack-cutting tool available for undercutting edges of larger openings, but a beer can opener will do just as well. A small, clean paintbrush is handy but not necessary for cleaning out dust, then wetting down the area to be repaired.

For small holes, such as those left by picture hanger nails, and for fine cracks use a prepared spackling compound or crack filler. This is available dry for you to mix with water or in a paste form that is ready to use.

This dries more slowly than plaster but it is easy to handle and has good adhesion even when applied in thin layers.

For larger holes use patching plaster which is available in small as well as large quantities. Plaster of paris can be used but this will not provide you with much working time since it dries very quickly. It also tends to pull away when troweling.

Patching plaster is not exactly slow in setting, however. It will begin to set in 15 or 20 minutes, so mix only what you can use in that period of time.

When repairing fine cracks and small holes, first brush out all dust and loose material. For a small hole just a single, generous application of spackling compound is needed. Smear it over the hole and then use your putty knife. Hold it almost flat against the hole and stroke the knife back and forth to fill the opening and smooth it. Wipe off excess compound from the knife.

Larger cracks and holes will need more preparation. Chip out all loose material. Undercut the edges of the opening so that the patch will not pull out. Wet the opening thoroughly before applying plaster. Fill halfway, allow to dry, then wet down again and make the final application. When that is dry, sand for a smooth finish.

An area where a big chunk of plaster has fallen out takes a little more work but can be repaired by almost anyone. Again clean out the opening of all loose and crumbly material. Undercut. Leave only sound material.

Wet down and apply plaster in layers, allowing each to harden before applying the next and wetting thoroughly in between. Press the first layer in firmly so that it works into the lath.

For large patches such as this you will need a trowel rather than a putty knife. For a glassy finish, wet the final coat after it has started to stiffen. Use a brush.

If the hole has no backing, you will have to provide one. If the hole is large already, see how much more you would have to chip away to expose the wall studs. Then nail a plasterboard to the studs.

Another method is to stuff the hole with crumpled newspaper, using a big enough wad so that it will stay in place. Then slap a few globs of plaster on this and around the edges and let dry to form a plug for the new plaster.

Christmas in Appalachia

Boy Wants Little, May Get Nothing

RICHARD CHURCH, officially a member of the poverty class, wants nothing more than a fire wagon for Christmas. It isn't much, but he probably won't get one.

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WELCH, W.Va.—(NEA)—A mile and a half into the hills off State Route 10 near here, 7-year-old Richard Church waits excitedly for Christmas Day.

He wants a fire wagon.

"Boy," he says, "oh, boy, I can hardly wait."

Frankly, his wish is a selfish and impractical one. He needs other things worse. He needs shoes, for instance. He needs a haircut badly. He could even use a pair of stockings so that one might hang over the door Christmas eve.

But, then, a fire wagon is important to a boy, even a boy who has nothing else. And besides, shoes would hurt his feet, his hair would grow shaggy again, and a stocking over the door would very likely go empty.

So, a fire wagon.

"Oh, boy!"

Will he get it? Probably not. Young Richard Church is one of the 34 million Americans who await the holidays this year under the official government pronouncement of belonging to the poverty class . . . that is, a member of a family whose total income is $3,000 or less each year.

In Richard's case, his family earns nothing each year. His father, an out-of-work coal miner, gets $121 a month from the welfare department, and that has to stretch over six kids, a mother and an old family dog.

Take two or three meals a day for eight mouths, the rent, the electricity, enough clothing to keep the chill away . . . and the rest of December's $121 may not cover a fire wagon, not even a cheap one, which is the only kind under consideration.

Richard's mother, Patricia, 35, says the family will definitely celebrate Christmas. She promises a tree, because they can be freely harvested from the immediate Appalachian hills. And she promises, with food-stamp aid, a good meal.

But a fire wagon?

"Well," she shrugs, "we'll see."

Actually, young Richard Church understands the imponderables here. And he tempers his wishes with knowing restraint. A kid who seldom gets anything he asks for is hardly an optimist. A kid like that is suspicious of hope.

And the boy is icily realistic anyway. He knows full well the way it is. In his time he has had most of life's cold water tossed at him.

He is, for one thing, cross-eyed. His right pupil turns decidedly inward. When he wants to see anything clearly, which is most of the time, he must cock his head to one side to get the correct focus.

This sight problem itself isn't so bad, perhaps, but the side effects are dangerous. The deformity has upset Richard's sense of balance and he often falls for no reason . . . down the stairs, in the dirt, on the rocks.

It happens daily.

"Like to scare us to death," his parent admits.

Mother Church says a clinic doctor in Bluefield prescribed corrective lenses years ago. But she didn't know where to get them. "So I never did."

But actually, getting the spectacles has never rated high priority in the Church family. Nobody really pays that much attention to Richard's eyes. Everybody is too busy worrying about the rest of him.

"He is," says the mother, "also an epileptic."

Richard is, in fact, a serious epileptic. He has a seizure almost daily. And virtually all of his waking hours are spent in periodic fits of less intensified but completely uncontrolled shaking.

"He'll just be sitting there or something," says Mrs. Church, "and then it'll happen. He just goes to pieces. Ain't nothing we can do for him at all."

Combined, Richard Church's physical miseries have forced him into a shut-in's existence. He attended a preschool program two years ago but knocked himself out during a fit and hasn't returned to class since.

Today he seldom leaves his home, which is a half-century old, unpainted and almost unfurnished. Plastic sheets are nailed to the windows. The roof leaks. A stain of coal dust covers everything . . . including Richard.

His days are dreary and monotonous. Morning. Afternoon. Evening. All the same. Sleep. Wake up. Begin the whole thing over again.

Mostly, the boy plays with whatever is available, which isn't much. He runs around the rubbled yard without shoes. He likes to dig the ground with sticks. He sits on the porch. There is an old, woeful television set.

"He don't do much," his mother says, "he needs something."

In truth, Richard Church needs almost everything. Medical attention, balanced meals, education, decent clothing. But as of now, this Christmas, there is scant possibility of this classic case of privation getting any of them.

Not even the fire wagon.

EPILEPTIC and cross-eyed, Richard Church has at least one friend, his dog.

Ecumenism In Action Dec. 14

The Sacred Heart School eighth grade students participated in a day of Christian involvement Thursday, Dec. 14.

The program, conducted by the Father James Mannering of the LaSalette Fathers, Jefferson City, and the Rev. M. G. Albright of the United Church of Christ, took place in the school of religion at the United Church of Christ.

Talks were given, followed by student discussion and art work interpretations of the messages given. Informal question and answer periods were also held throughout the day.

A song fest and refreshments concluded the day with the students singing "Rock of My Soul," to the accompaniment of guitars played by Sisters Nancy and Gretchen.

Sister Gabriella, principal, says she hopes to have more of this type of program at all age levels.

The unofficial vote was 17-0 in favor of the annexation. Five of those voting live in the area to be annexed while Champ has 12 registered voters.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Air Force says Portland produces some of the best sentry dogs in the country.

An Air Force dog sentry recruiting team visited Portland for four days last week and signed up 53 of the 128 dogs inspected.

Lt. L. R. Rice, the officer in charge of the recruiting team, said there were two main reasons why they had to turn down some dogs—gunshyness and lack of courage and aggressive spirit.
